IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON.

Passage of the Kansas Bill in the Senate.

The Bill Amended so as to Declare the Right of the People to Alter the Constitution.

Minnesota Dropped—The Pacific Railroad Next in Order.

Course of the Anti-Lecompton Democrats—Probable Action of the House—Illness of Mr. Harris, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 23.

The Lecomptonite Senators held a caucus this morning, at which it was agreed not to yoke Minnesota with Kansas. This was done because Kansas alone will be less objectionable to the South Americans in the House.

It was also agreed to make an amendment substantially like PUGH's, relative to the right of the people to alter the Constitution.

It was further agreed that after Kansas was disposed of, the Pacific Railroad should be taken up immediately and discussed, so as to prevent the consideration of the admission of Minnesota until after the House acts on the Kansas bill.

The Lecomptonites claim an improvement in their stock to-day. They base their hopes on the supposition that the South Americans will sustain the bill in the shape in which it has passed the Senate. There is no good reason for this supposition.

The course of Senator CAMERON to-day, in pairing off with Senator DAVIS, who was absent, excited great surprise and some indignation.

The Anti-Lecompton Democrats have a meeting to-night to consult relative to their course. Mr. HARRIS, of Illinois, having ruptured a blood vessel, will be unable longer to assume the active leadership in the House. It is supposed, however, that he will be able to be present and vote.

The first question in the House will probably be on a motion to refer the Senate bill to the Select Committee, with specific instructions to investigate the facts, and adding one South American and one Anti-Lecompton Democrat thereto. S.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 23.

The Postmaster-General has issued instructions to dispatch the mails for Europe by the North American, from Boston, New-York, and Philadelphia only, Portland not being an exchange office for the foreign mails.

Nearly all the members of the House were in the Senate during the closing proceedings on the Kansas bill. The Chamber in every part was as densely crowded as possible. On announcement of the vote, there was slight applause in the galleries, intermingled with hisses, but no extraordinary excitement was manifested.

The National Art Convention have adopted a constitution for organization on a firm and definite basis for the advancement and promotion of art in the United States, with a view to secure the recognition by Government of the claims and interests of art. The Convention will urge on Congress the appointment of a commission to secure to artists an unprejudiced and unbiased adjudication upon any works they may present for the adornment and completion of the national buildings. They also propose the formation of a national school of art.

The Rev. Dr. BELLOWS lectured to-night at the Smithsonian Institution before the Convention.

XXXVth CONGRESS....First Session.

SENATE.... WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 23.

The Senate is again crowded to-day.

The preliminary business was unimportant.

Mr. GREEN commenced by denying the assertion of the Senator from Michigan (STUART) that the friends of Lecompton have been driven from their positions. The Senator from Illinois (DOUGLAS) implied the same thing, but it is not so, and the Committee's report stands unchallenged. Its every individual charge is sustained by official evidence, and the only exception taken to the report is by the senior Senator from Vermont, (FOOT,) who objects to the harsh appellation of rebels. He made some desultory preliminary remarks in reply to the Senators from Michigan, Illinois and Vermont, and then went into the main line of his argument, saying that the Government of Kansas was de facto quite as much as in the case of California, even if you admit that frauds were committed. He drew a parallel between the cases of Kansas and California, citing Mr. DOUGLAS' opinion on the latter in support of his own (GREEN'S,) views on the former. He said the statement that nineteen counties were disfranchised, was meant to deceive. Those counties were a wilderness without inhabitants. He defended the legality of the early steps towards the formation of the Lecompton Constitution, and denied the assertions of the Senator from Vermont, and Mr. FOSTER, that there were broken pledges on the part of Governor WALKER and the President. Everybody knows that Governor WALKER was in favor of submitting the Constitution to the people. He advocated it, but he had no power to pledge it. The Senator from Illinois says that the only reason they did not submit the whole Constitution, was because it was said it would be voted down. Who said so? No one except the Senators from Illinois and Michigan. The great question is, does the Constitution embody the will of the people, which is legally the expressed will. The rules and the evidence are the same in equity, and in law. We cannot take the flying rumors and the opinions of the Governors of Kansas as evidence; that is fraught with a danger which, if carried to its ultimatum, would bring bristling bayonets and cannon pointed at the walls of the Capitol, to substitute opinions of the mob for the forms of law. All the legal forms having been complied with in completing the Lecompton Constitution, it was a completed fact that the people had no right to vote as to whether or not it was a Constitution. What would Senators say if the Constitution of their own States, after being in actual operation, was to be submitted to the people to see whether it is a Constitution or not. The Senator from Kentucky says it would do no harm, and would only show abundant care to submit it again and again to the people. Yes, try again, try again—Col. [illegible] would have liked that principle to try again. As to the cry of fraud, it reminded him, but he would not apply the maxim to the Senators, "That a lie well stuck to and often repeated is as good as the truth." Mr. GREEN continued to analyze the reputed frauds, admitting that frauds did exist, but none to vitiate the Constitution. Further than that no legal evidence exists to show that this Lecompton Constitution does not embody the will of the people of Kansas, and if we go beyond the legal evidence, we strike at the very principle of liberty. He admitted that the Senators from Illinois, Michigan, California and Kentucky, were not influenced in their act by the existence or non-existence of Slavery in Kansas, but they were assisting to build up a party dangerous to the Union, and whose fundamental principle, just enunciated, is "No more Slave States." Had it not been for them, [illegible] many weeks since would have been a young sister in the federation of States. Mr. GREEN would not go over to or aid the enemy, however he might be dissatisfied with the action of his friends. Among other things he said that Black Republicanism crushing out the Democracy in its course, would never meet its barrier till it met the cannon of the South. He concluded by expressing an ardent aspiration for the consolidation and permanency of the Democratic Party. Kansas is but the John Doe and Richard Roe; it is of no importance that CALHOUN has given the certificates to the Free State men; the principle involved is one vital to the South and the North in so far as it depends on the South; for the interests of both, are so interwoven that they cannot be severed without injury to both.

Mr. SEWARD—Does the Senator attach no importance to the circumstance that the Constitution requires the returns to be made within eight days?

Mr. GREEN—That election of officers Congress has no right to touch. He did not know, neither did the Senator from New-York. A note here laid on his desk said that the returns were all made within eight days; so the Senator from New-York is answered. Mr. GREEN then referred to the statement of Mr. DOUGLAS that the Constitution can only be changed before 1864 by the exercise of revolutionary right, and said it was not so. New-York and other States had done it, and it was inserted with a similar interpretation in the Kansas bill of rights. The people must have that right to change the Constitution in a legal way, otherwise they could not regulate their own affairs, but would be bound by the preceding generation. In summing up, he said he would not appeal to the American Party, but would ask them to help to break down the only party dangerous to both.

Mr. CRITTENDEN, of Kentucky, would not reopen the debate, but made an explanation that his statements were based on the official records, and not on Governors' conversations. Thank God, he distinguished the right and the wrong, and had the courage to say so. He followed his conviction, and not a party. It was Kentucky's maxim, "Be just and fear not," and it was his. He believed his course best for the North and the South. He had never used the words "arrayed himself on the side of the Northern Democracy." He wished neither to build up nor break down any party. He made an affectionate reference to his compatriots of the Senate, when the Senate was a great body, CLAY, CALHOUN, WEBSTER and BENTON. He was an American, and his principle was to protect the ballot-box as the only instrument by which the people can exercise sovereignty, the ballot-box being the crown and sceptre of American sovereignty.

Mr. CRITTENDEN having finished, a conversation arose as to whether the ordinance relating to the taxation of the public lands was part of the Constitution.

The Free-Soilers argued that it was, and exhibited Mr. CALHOUN's certificate to that effect. Mr. PUGH and others argued that it was not, and the matter dropped.

Mr. GREEN moved that, without further debate, the Senate proceed to take a vote. He withdrew the Minnesota bill altogether, and moved three amendments to the original bill.

First—Strike out of the preamble and substitute, "Whereas, the people of the Territory of Kansas did, by a convention of delegates called and assembled at Lecompton Sept. 4, 1857, form for themselves a Constitution and State government, which said Convention having asked the admission of the Territory into the Union as a State, on an equal footing with the original States," &c. Carried.

Secondly—Add to section 2, ninth line, "That nothing in this act shall be construed to abridge or infringe any right of the people, asserted in the Constitution of Kansas, at all times, to alter, reform or abolish their form of government in such manner as they may think proper—Congress hereby disclaiming any authority to intervene or declare the construction of the Constitution of any State, except to see that it is Republican in form, and not in conflict with the United States. Carried by Ayes, 31; Nays, 25.

Thirdly—A verbal amendment of the eleventh line of the second section—Cancel word "of," and substitute "annexed to." Carried.

Mr. PUGH withdrew his amendment of March 2, and substituted another—that the Federal laws, if not inapplicable, be extended into the State of Kansas, a judicial district be formed, and a Judge, Attorney and Marshal be appointed and paid, as in Iowa. Carried by Ayes, 37; Nays, 19.

Mr. CRITTENDEN moved a substitute for the bill, in substance that the Constitution be submitted to the people now, and if approved of, the President to admit Kansas by proclamation. If rejected, the people to call a Convention and frame a Constitution. The substitute makes special provision against frauds.

Mr. KENNEDY, as a conservative middle-man, would support Mr. CRITTENDEN, reserving the right afterwards to vote for Lecompton.

Mr. HOUSTON voted for Lecompton, in obedience to the resolutions of his State.

Mr. PUGH reluctantly voted against Lecompton for the same reason.

Mr. IVERSON defined his position.

Mr. GREEN accepted the suggestion of another verbal alteration.

Mr. CRITTENDEN's substitute was then put and lost yeas 24 nays 34.

The bill as amended to admit Kansas with the Lecompton Constitution was then put and passed by yeas 33, nays 25.

ABSENTEES—Messrs. Bates, Davis, and Reid.

PAIRED OFF—Mr. Cameron. [Applause and hisses.]

Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 22.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Deficiency Appropriation bill.

Mr. KELLOGG, of Illinois, concluded a speech from yesterday against Lecompton. He said the day of compromises has past, and the people of the North have calmly and deliberately taken their position with the determination not to recede. They will ask nothing but their just rights.

Mr. SINGLETON, of Mississippi, while advocating Lecompton, reviewed in condemnation the Northern movements against Slavery, expressing his belief that there were members of the House who have stolen slaves from their masters.

Mr. HOWARD, of Michigan, maintained that nothing was clearer than that the admission of a new State was in the nature of a contract. If the people were not represented, its admission would be not only intervention, but oppression. He denied that Kansas was properly here. Its Constitution was the work of a few reckless men in the Territory. The Legislature which brought the Lecompton Convention into existence never had a legal existence. It was a fraud and a usurpation, and no recognition of the fraud by any branch of the Government could give it validity. If the Constitution thus marked with fraud is forced on the people of Kansas, there will be no longer peace. The worst of all tyranny has been practiced toward them. Their rights have been trampled down, and self-government has been denied them; but they will proclaim, in a voice of thunder, that resistance to tyranny is obedience to God.

Mr. BARRETT, (Ky.,) said the Republican Party was responsible for all the trouble and revolutionary spirit in Kansas, by sending armed emigrants to exclude from the Territory Southern property. Those who advocated the Topeka Constitution which was begotten in a hot bed of treason, now undertake to upbraid the friends of the Lecompton Constitution which comes here in pursuance of law. Such hypocrisy has no parallel in the history of the world. The party which declares that there shall be no more Slave States, will ultimately attempt to carry out its principle in the Slave States themselves. The time is rapidly approaching for action, and when the question is settled there will be no necessity to read men out of the party, for every one, whether in the North or South, will have his true position assigned him.

Mr. BLAIR, of Missouri, said those who were elected as friends of the President, and the President himself, have fully exposed his forfeiture of his pledges, that the people of Kansas should decide the character of their own institutions. Hateful as is the design to force on Kansas a constitution abhorred by her people, by low and mean frauds, hateful as are the crimes which have held Kansas in subjugation, still more hateful is the design deliberately formed to extend by conspiracy Slavery to the whole country. Under the decision of the Supreme Court, in the Dred Scott case, the Government has contributed power to drive white men out of Kansas to make way for Slavery. There was a time when the Democratic Party took ground against the privileged classes, but now it arrays itself against free labor, and in favor of those who seek to wrest territory from free men and plant it with slaves. That party is as much the tool of the slave oligarchy as the negroes themselves.

Mr. WORTENDYKE, of New-Jersey, said the people were heartily disgusted with this ceaseless agitation, and the best policy is to throw the negro question out of Congress at the earliest possible time. For this reason he would vote for the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution. It being Republican and sanctioned by lawful authority, he could find no reason for a contrary course.

Mr. POTTER, of Wisconsin, attributed the present agitation to a violation of the pledges of the Democracy by repealing the Missouri Compromise, thus opening the Territory to Slavery, which gives no repose to its victim, white or black. He spoke of the Lecompton Constitution as the Juggernaut of Slavery—an infernal machine, invented by devils to crush out the manhood of its victims, and alluded to Mr. CALHOUN as a depraved and villainous man who called to his aid the basest tools to aid him in his unholy designs. The President in his Kansas message had indulged in false and intemperate accusations, and had, in an undignified style, indorsed atrocities, frauds and swindles. In justifying the Free-State movements, Mr. POTTER rejoiced that the spirit of 1776 was not yet extinct, and that Americans would still rebel against tyranny and oppression.

The House then adjourned.

The Utah Expedition.

MOVEMENT OF TROOPS FROM FORT LEAVENWORTH—LETTER FROM COL. JOHNSTON.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, March 23.

The Leavenworth Times of the 19th says that yesterday morning two companies of infantry and two of cavalry left the Fort for Utah. They design overtaking Col. HOFFMAN and the escort of the supply train for Col. JOHNSTON's army, from Fort Laramie. This train consists of 160 heavily loaded wagons.

The Republican publishes extracts from a private letter from Col. JOHNSTON to a friend in this city, dated Feb. 5. He says he has received no communication from the Government since the 22d day of October. He complains that the contractors take more than three months to carry the mails to Utah, when their contract says the service shall be done monthly. Col. JOHNSTON describes his march to Camp Scott, compliments his troops, and says the Mormons have, as fully as words and actions can, manifested the intention that they will no longer submit to any government but their own, and that the people of the Union must either submit to a usurpation of their territory, and have a government erected in their midst, acknowledging no dependence upon or allegiance to the Federal authority, or act with vigor and force to compel them to succumb. He expresses an earnest hope that every exertion may be made to forward supplies early in the Spring, under a sufficient guard of mounted men.

Miscellaneous Items.

The monument to the memory of the tragedian, J. B. Booth, preparing in Boston, is an obelisk nine feet high, upon a pedestal five feet six inches high and is rapidly advancing to completion. The profile head, surrounded with laurels, with which the front of the obelisk is to be embellished, is completed in plaster. The monument is to be ready for delivery next month, and will be placed in the cemetery in Baltimore.

A widow woman living at the corner of Plum and Mason streets, Cincinnati, named Mrs. Ann Bennett, committed suicide on the 18th inst., by drowning herself in the canal. For some time past she had exhibited slight aberrations of mind, the cause of which is not known.

Manufacturers are getting at work again. At Danielsonville, Conn., all the mills, large and small, are starting up, and at Norwich they are all running full time. At Putnam, Conn., more than half the spindles are at work, and the large mill at Chestnut Hill (Killingly) has just started.

FROM ALBANY.

Exempting Firemen from Taxation—Church Property—Passage of the "Free Pass Bill"—The City Hall—Appointment of a Grinding Committee, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Tuesday, March 23, 1858.

It was the "general orders" in the House this morning. The most important bill considered was that exempting the firemen of the several villages from taxation on all property the assessed value of which does not exceed $500. I confess my inability to see any good reason why such a law should be enacted. Certainly not more than one-half of the enrolled firemen of our country towns ever saw a fire and the other would hardly know what to do with their apparatus should the contingency arise in which their services would be required. They are now exempt from the performance of Jury duty, and that exemption is certainly a sufficient compensation for any service they can possibly be called upon to render their fellow-citizens. In the large cities and towns, where fires are of frequent occurrence, it may perhaps be prudent and judicious to grant the additional exemption from the payment of taxes on an assessment of $500. But going to the extent of this bill is going a little too far. It is barely possible that the bill may pass the House, but I think it cannot under any circumstances pass the ordeal of the Senate.

CHURCH PROPERTY.

In the Senate there was a warm debate over the bill to amend the charter of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The bill passed the Committee of the whole Senate, on a slim attendance, last evening. It comes up this morning on a motion to recommit back to the Committee of the Whole. The discussion turned on that clause of the bill which authorized the Society to hold real estate the net income of which did not exceed $50,000 per annum. This would probably give the Society a value of more than $1,000,000. And very naturally there was a repugnance to allowing so large an accumulation of real estate in the hands of a Missionary Society. The discussion took a wide range, and in its scope finally embraced the leading features of the questions discussed some years ago. When Senator PUTNAM's Church Property bill was before the Legislature at that time, it was charged that legislation was being directed against a particular denomination, and that but for the predominance of a great party which had adopted the measures of that bill among its cardinal principles, the proposed enactment would not have met with sufficient favor to secure its success. In the discussion to-day that theory was exploded; I saw predominant the same jealousy of the predominance of Protestant influence that was manifested in 1855, at a time when measures were proposed to restrict the concentration of property in the hands of the Roman Catholic Bishops.

The bill was recommitted, and will, I think, be materially amended in this respect before it is ordered to a third reading.

THE FREE PASSES.

Senator STOW's bill to prohibit railroad companies from giving members of the Legislature free passes was read a third time and passed, ayes 21, noes 5. The ayes and noes were as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Ames, Boardman, Darling, Ely, Foote, Halsted, Johnson, Laflin, Loveland, Mather, Noxon, Paterson, Pratt, Scott, Sloan, Spinola, Stow, Truman, W. A. Wheeler, John D. Willard, Williams.

NAYS—Messrs. Doherty, Hubbell, Mandeville, Schell, Smith.

I think the gentlemen who voted "No" on this strange and ridiculous proposition are entitled to rank among those who had the courage to brave a popular infatuation, and to do right in despite of the pressure of popular clamor. If the necessity exists for such an enactment, there will be found a thousand ways by which its provisions can be evaded and its penalties avoided. If there is not a necessity for such an enactment, it seems such a libel upon the Legislature and upon the Judiciary as ought not to have a place upon the statute-book.

THE CITY HALL.

Senator MATHER's bill to repeal the law of last Winter creating a commission to erect a new City Hall, was passed through the Senate this morning, by a vote of Ayes 18; Noes 5. The bill passed authorizing the Mayor and Supervisors to appoint three Commissioners to erect a new City Hall and Court-Rooms on Chambers-street, and authorizes the creation of a debt of $250,000.

VERY PROPER.

Some time since a bill was introduced providing for the "better security of persons furnishing and repairing machinery." It was one of the iniquities that have become quite fashionable of late, of giving special liens for special services. The bill came back to the Senate this morning with a report against its passage. This was the official indorsement, but I find in one corner an additional label, which is a more emphatic expression of the opinions of the Committee: "An ex-post facto humbug!" I wish the Committee had done the State the service to present their views at length when they reported against the bill.

A GRINDING COMMITTEE

was ordered some days since by the Senate. This morning the Lieutenant-Governor announced the following gentlemen as composing that Committee; Messrs. Noxon, Ely, O. B. Wheeler, Williamson, A. Wheeler, Foster, Williams and Wadsworth. Gentlemen having axes to sharpen, will please be on hand every afternoon at 4 o'clock, at which hour the grindstone will commence to revolve.

THE POLICE BILL,

or rather the bill to repeal the law of last Winter creating the Metropolitan Police District, was the special order for 12 o'clock. Senator WADSWORTH spoke at some length, and with considerable force, in favor of the unconditional repeal of the existing law. He having concluded his argument, the bill was made the special order for Friday, at 12 o'clock.

THE PUBLIC LANDS.

Senator STOW introduced the following resolutions, which go to the table one day, under the rules:

Resolved, (If the Assembly concur,) that our Representatives and Senators in Congress, be requested not to vote any further special appropriation of the public lands to the new States until some just general provision be made by which the original States shall receive their equitable proportion of the said lands, or the proceeds thereof.

Resolved, That his Excellency, the Governor, be requested to forward a copy of this resolution to each of our members of Congress.

JUVENILE DELINQUENTS.

The bill to make an appropriation of $75,000 to aid the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New-York, was considered in Committee of the whole Senate. It was amended so as to appropriate an additional sum of $20,000 to the Western House of Refuge, and thus amended was ordered to a third reading.

When the treasury of the State is bankrupt—when the State cannot pay its debts, and is unable to find the monies appropriated last year to charitable institutions, it seems incredible that a Senate could have been so insane as to act favorably on a proposition which attempts to extract nearly one hundred thousand dollars from a treasury that is already depleted.

GOSSIP, ETC.

To-morrow is Executive session day. It is possible that the Governor may send in a nomination for Superintendent of the Syracuse Salt Springs, in place of V. W. SMITH, whose term of office is about out. It is uncertain yet who the Governor will name. One hour the scales seem to settle in favor of SMITH, the present incumbent. The next they turn to the side of TRUESDALL, his competitor. I took a look through the Executive door to-day, just after the Executive had been posted up by strong delegations on both sides. His Excellency was looking exceedingly puzzled, and I thought at times I caught a strain of that old ditty, "How happy could I be with either," swelling up from the Gubernatorial throat.

No nominations will be made for Port-Wardens until after the Court of Appeals shall have passed upon the constitutionality of the law of last Winter reorganizing the Warden's office. That decision will probably be made in a few days. There will be three vacancies in the Warden's office this coming month, and if the law is sustained by the Court of Appeals, they will be worth the asking. Those desirous of sharing the responsibilities and enjoying the spoils of office, would do well to be on hand some time the latter part of next week. "The early bird catches the worm."

Morning prayer meetings are held daily in the Assembly Chamber. I do not as yet learn that they have exerted much beneficial influence upon the House. But yet I advise a hearty perseverance. There is no telling at what moment the most icy heart may melt—especially under the influence of the spirit.

Strenuous efforts are being made to open the canals on the 20th of April. The water will be let in five days previous to the resumption of navigation, in order that the banks may become thoroughly soaked and settled before the boats commence running.

The House, in Committee of the Whole, considered the bill to prevent disturbance at religious meetings; also the bill relative to steamboat piers and slips in the City of New-York; also the bill relative to a Sanitary Police in the City of New-York; also the bill to exempt firemen from $500 assessments. All of which were debated, and progress reported.

Mr. SEELEY gave notice that a meeting of the Special Committee on the bill to abolish the office of New-York City Judge should meet on Thursday, at 3 P. M.

The bill fixing the school year, and in relation to public instruction, was debated until the adjournment for the evening session took place.

EVENING SESSION.

General VAN RENSSELAER and Adjutant-General TOWNSEND, sent in a report from the Board of Commissioners to adjudicate the claims of the State Militia in the war of 1812, explaining the reasons of the delay, stating that many duplicate claims have been received, requiring time to examine, and recommending filing of the claims in the Comptroller's office.

The Attorney-General reported, in relation to streams of water which have been taken by the State as public highways, that in his opinion the owners of such streams, the yust being navigable ones, are entitled to full compensation from the State for the use thereof.

Mr. HASTFORD moved to extend the privileges of the House to the Mayor of Brooklyn. Agreed to.

The bill increasing Notaries Public in New-York was ordered to a third reading.

BILLS PASSED.

Bill to pay the Croton Aqueduct Department for water supplied to Sing Sing.

Bill to enlarge the power of the Board of Supervisors.

Bill to extend the time for the payment of taxes in certain towns of Kings, Queens and Richmond Counties.

Mr. ENOS introduced a bill relative to Public Education in New-York City. The bill is prepared with a care to preserve the City school system. It does not shorten the term of the present officers, except where there are now no schools. The Board of Education is to consist of 20 members, five from each District, and not members of the local Board. Ten trustees to be elected from the Aldermanic Districts, two each year for five years, the Inspectors to be nominated by the Mayor. To meet quarterly, and to have charge of licensing teachers of Normal Schools.

The Free Academy to be intrusted to a Board of ten trustees nominated by the Mayor, to serve ten years. The Evening schools to be placed in charge of the local boards. Industrial schools to be provided for. The Board of Education is thus deprived of the patronage which sometimes is improperly used: checks are provided for all expenditures; annual estimates are to be made of the average attendance, and stringent regulations are provided in regard to supplies.

PAUDEEN'S DEATH.

Inquest of the Coroner and the Verdict of the Jury—Cunningham Committed.

Coroner GAMBLE, with his deputy, PHILIP O'HANLON, commenced an inquest upon the body of Paudeen at 10 o'clock A.M. yesterday. The following are the names of the Jurors: N. A. Freeman, No. 278 Broadway; Bernard Reilly, No. 42 East Broadway; L. F. B. Hatfield, No. 72 Horatio-street; Daniel Devlin, Broadway and Warren-street; Geo. B. Robinson, No. 2½ Murray-street; P. C. Lee, No. 42 Third-street; Geo. T. Green, No. 1 Astor House.

A large number of Paudeen's associates, as well as the friends of CUNNINGHAM, were present, who, with the witnesses, filled the room over the dead-house. Some half a dozen witnesses were examined, whose testimony strongly pointed to Paudeen as the party mostly to blame in getting up the fight, and there was little discrepancy between the witnesses as to the main facts of the occurrence. The first witness called was Michael McLaughlin, a brother of Paudeen. He knew nothing whatever of the occurrence, until he was informed that his brother had been shot; he went to the Hospital, where he found him, but had no conversation with him about the matter.

Theodore Edgar, being called and sworn, deposed that he went into the bar-room about midnight of Friday, where he saw a number of persons, and among them the deceased and Cunningham; there was then no quarreling; he left, and returned in a short time, when he saw there was a difficulty between Paudeen and Petrie; they soon clinched, and Paudeen was thrown on the floor; they were separated; Paudeen soon got up, and taking off his coat offered to fight Petrie; Cunningham retreated behind the bar, and Paudeen tried to get towards him, but was prevented by the crowd; he saw no pistol or knife in the hands of Paudeen; thinks Cunningham could have got out without difficulty if he had tried; Paudeen finally got up to the bar; Cunningham was standing as far back as he could get, against the wall, and tried to avoid Paudeen, and told him to keep away; Paudeen turned to Edgar and said, "Have you got a pistol," and then asked if anybody would lend him a knife; the distance across the bar was four or five feet; Cunningham kept telling Paudeen to let him alone; he wanted nothing to do with him; but he tried to get at him behind the counter; the crowd kept him back; about fifteen minutes elapsed, when Paudeen got near the bar and said, "To-morrow, when I meet you, I'll slap your face;" Cunningham replied: "No, you won't," or "You had better not do it." Paudeen said, "I'll bet you a dollar I'll do it;" and, so saying, took out a piece of money and handed it to the bar-keeper, Charles Helmes, as a wager, to hold the stakes; the same talk about fighting continued for a time, when witness tried to get Paudeen to leave; Mr. Young also tried; after this, an offer was made to take a drink; Cunningham was sober, but Paudeen was about half drunk; witness thought, at this stage, the whole matter was settled; Paudeen then seized hold of Cunningham's coat collar, hauling him over the counter, saying, to Cunningham, "You won't shoot me with that pistol—you don't dare to shoot anybody;" Cunningham was now hauled up on tiptoe, and said, "Let go of me, I tell you; I am behind this counter, and am de[illegible] anybody else; [illegible] let go of me—once, twice—three times;" and then fired; Paudeen fell backwards upon the floor; witness assisted in raising Paudeen up, and then "put out" as fast as he could; Paudeen had no weapon; the front door was fastened by a latch; at this time the ball was out; witness didn't know whether Cunningham drank with the rest when invited; Cunningham had his pistol out in sight when he was behind the counter, and all knew he had it; he fired in three or four seconds after the warning to let go.

Harvey Young, being sworn, deposed: he resides at No. 118 Prince-street; he left McLaughlin about 1 o'clock on Saturday morning, at No. 149 Bowery; from thence they went together towards Broadway, stopping at Florence's, and also at McDonough's, corner of Lispenard-street; McLaughlin drank a glass of cider at each place; they then went to No. 23 Howard-street, where there was a crowd; among them he recognized Cunningham; they drank round once or twice, and then Cunningham asked them to drink; Paudeen and Patterson got into a conversation about Morrissey; Paudeen said, "It's no use talking about him, he is a big cowardly loafer;" Cunningham then came up, and taking hold of deceased by the coat collar, said, "don't talk that way about Mr. Morrissey—he is a friend of mine;" deceased said to Cunningham, "Let go of me; take your hands off me;" the crowd then separated them, and Cunningham ran behind the counter, saying, "I can't get out of here—I can't get out of here;" Paudeen said, "You're a saucy little sucker, and I ought to smash your mouth;" Cunningham made some answer, when Paudeen said, "I'll bet a dollar I'll slap your face to-morrow, when I meet you," at the same time pulling a quarter out of his pocket and handing it to Helmes; he then said to Cunningham, "What business have you behind the bar? you don't belong there; why don't you come out?" Cunningham then came from behind the bar into the middle of the room and said, "I'm here;" Paudeen asked if anybody had a pistol, and would let him have it; witness saw a pistol in the hands of Cunningham. [Pistol shown.] Witness—That looks like the pistol; it is a short one, single-barrelled and a large bore. The witness proceeded—Their friends were keeping them apart; Cunningham went behind the counter and stood against where the decanters were placed; witness then asked McLaughlin if he would do him a favor; he said he would, and witness asked him if he would go out of the place; McLaughlin said he would; they then turned to go, and Paudeen said, "Good night, Dad;" and then said to George Hill, "Let us have one drink before we go," and turned again towards the bar; Paudeen was leaning against the bar; then Cunningham came up from the opposite side towards the counter, and the first he heard was Cunningham saying "Let go; let go, or I'll shoot you—one, two, three;" the pistol was fired, and I saw deceased fall; Cunningham then came from behind the counter, and wanted to know if any of his (Paudeen's) friends wanted any satisfaction; nobody answered him, and he went out; deceased was taken and laid on a settee, and witness went out; when he returned he had been carried to the Hospital; witness had known deceased five or six years, and never knew him carry any weapons; the ball-room door was open all the time, and Cunningham could have gone out at any time; the scuffle between Petrie and Paudeen lasted two or three minutes; Paudeen was a little affected by liquor, but Cunningham was not.

Wm. E. Allen deposed: He resides at No. 474 Broadway; is the proprietor of the saloon No. 23 Howard-street, and was there on Friday night last, from about half-past eleven P. M. to half-past three A. M. on Saturday; between twelve and one o'clock several parties came in, two or three in company, among the rest McLaughlin; he heard him talking about Morrissey; he was standing at the end of the room, and McLaughlin came to where witness was; soon Cunningham also came and said, "Don't talk that way—I'm a friend of Morrissey;" in another moment I heard a scuffle, and went and separated them; witness said, "Don't be foolish; this man likes Morrissey, and probably has his reasons for it; and you (addressing deceased) don't; let each man have his own opinion;" witness next saw Cunningham behind the counter and deceased in front of it; they were talking and wrangling; heard deceased say, "What are you doing behind the counter?" when Cunningham walked out, and stood in the middle of the room, saying, "Here I am—I'm not afraid to come out;" he then went back again, and they stood and jawed; witness didn't pay much attention; he had seen many such affairs; did not see Cunningham have a pistol; afterwards Petrie took hold of "Paudeen" and threw him on the floor; he then heard Young ask him to go out, and Paudeen said, "Good night, Dad;" then some one said, "Let's have a drink before we go;" the next witness heard was the report of the pistol, and saw Paudeen sinking sideways upon the floor; he took hold of him, and eased him down; it was about five minutes after the words, "Let's take a drink," to the discharge of the pistol; witness thought Paudeen could not have reached Cunningham if he had not come forward; the bar is about 2½ feet wide, and the space behind it about 3½ or 4 feet; he did not hear deceased ask for a knife or pistol.

John Petrie, of No. 143 West Thirty-fourth-street, was next called and sworn—He corroborated fully the other witnesses, and stated that he took hold of Paudeen and threw him on the floor to prevent him from attacking Cunningham; after which he rose and pulled off his coat to fight witness; asked if anybody would let him have a pistol; witness wished Cunningham to get out and go away; witness didn't think Cunningham could get out of the door; he said he would go out if allowed to leave unmolested; he saw Paudeen have hold of Cunningham, and heard the latter say, "I tell you to let go of me—once; I tell you twice; I tell you three times," and the pistol was discharged; from the first word to the discharge witness thought it was about three or four seconds.

Patrick Mackey, of No. 25 Lispenard street, who was a witness to the whole transaction, was then sworn and examined—He detailed the circumstances of the fray in terms substantially coincident with the statements of former witnesses. McLaughlin (he said) caught Cunningham twice by the collar; the first time he let go after Cunningham told him three or four times to let go of him; when he caught him again, Cunningham told him two or three times to let go of him, and said he would protect himself; then McLaughlin, in a sarcastic sort of way, said, "Dad, you wouldn't shoot me?" immediately thereafter Cunningham fired; before that, McLaughlin asked repeatedly for a pistol; said he would lick Cunningham; witness told him not to mind, but McLaughlin did not heed him, and caught Cunningham the second time; prior to that, witness took a drink on a general invitation, which was accepted by all the parties, though he himself was not friendly to Cunningham.

James Turner was the next witness examined—He gave his residence as Mr. Lyng's place, corner of Broadway and Canal. In detailing the circumstances of the difficulty he said that he went to the ball in Howard-street, where the difficulty occurred, about one o'clock on Saturday morning, and found Mr. Petrie and McLaughlin in a controversy about John Morrissey; witness told McLaughlin that that was no place to talk about Morrissey; if he had anything to say about him he had better say it to his face; then Cunningham interfered and the difficulty between him and McLaughlin began; witness separated them and tried to preserve peace; Cunningham then went behind the bar; McLaughlin left to go home, but came back again on an invitation to drink; he caught Cunningham by the collar; Cunningham told him to let go of him or he would kill him; he then let go and caught Cunningham again, and again let go; the third time he caught him Cunningham fired.

The testimony of Dr. DUBOIS was handed in, giving the result of the post-mortem examination, in terms almost similar to the statement published in Monday's TIMES.

Here the Coroner announced that as much evidence as he deemed necessary had been given, and ordered the room to be cleared of all but the Jurors.

After about half-an-hour's deliberation the Jury unanimously rendered a verdict to the effect that McLAUGHLIN's death was caused by a pistol-shot wound at the hands of DANIEL CUNNINGHAM, at No. 23 Howard-street, on the morning of the 20th of March, and further, that they were of opinion that the said act was not justifiable according to the evidence before the Coroner's Jury.

Thereupon the Coroner discharged the Jury with his thanks, and said to CUNNINGHAM he would have to commit him, according to the verdict rendered.

Ex-Judge PHILLIPS, who appeared for the prisoner, agreed to waive his examination until this morning at 10 o'clock. The prisoner said he was ready for examination at any time.

Some one handed him the bullet with which PAUDEEN was shot. He peered at it curiously for a moment or two, laid it down, talked for a moment to his counsel, and walked away with an officer, to the Tombs, as unconcernedly as though he was going to his dinner.

PAUDEEN'S BURIAL.

At 11 o'clock A. M. yesterday Paudeen's remains were quietly removed from the City Hospital to JENNY LYNG's drinking saloon, No. 555 Houston-street, corner of Crosby, where they remained last night whence they will be conveyed to Calvary Cemetery for interment. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The relatives of MCLAUGHLIN say that he was born in Ireland, and would have been 26 years old in May had he lived. The statement that Paudeen drew a pistol on TOM HYER at DICK PLATT's saloon, in Broadway, corner of Broome-street, his uncle says, is incorrect, for Paudeen was not in the saloon on the occasion referred to. Neither is it true, says the same authority, that Paudeen drew a pistol in his encounter with JIM HUGHES. he was not in the habit of carrying fire-arms, and had no pistol on the occasion of the affray which ended in his death. His friends say he was not on board of the Panama steamer at the time of the murderous assault upon a passenger, which has been attributed to him. Paudeen was a stone-cutter by trade, though he never worked much at the business. He has four brothers living—one in Newport, Ky., and three in New-York. Of them, three are stone-cutters, and one of them, residing in this City, is unable to work on account of physical deformity. Paudeen's aged mother—nearly 70 years old—lives in First-avenue, near Thirty-third-street.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Confirmation of Judge Allen—Rejection of Mr. Morton—Judge Loring Removed by Governor Banks—Excitement—Probable Consequences of the Act.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

Boston, Monday, March 22, 1858.

The Executive Council confirmed the appointment of Mr. Allen to the place of Chief Justice of the Superior Court, but they refused to pursue the same course towards Mr. Morton, whose nomination they rejected. This rejection, I presume, was owing to the fact that there is but one Boston man on the bench, though the Court is a Boston Court, and paid with Boston money, to grind out Boston criminals; and the Boston press complains because of the favor [illegible] their city with rural judges, which is a blow at home industry. As the Archers of the Scottish Guard were resolute not to be hanged by Tristan L'Hermite, but reserved their necks for "Auld Sandie Wilson," so are our people resolved upon being tried only by native judges, if that be possible. The three Judges now on the bench are from Boston, Worcester and Northampton. Mr. Allen, it is said, was confirmed by only one majority. As the action of the Council is not public, and is never published; as its books are not accessible to the people, and it is considered dishonorable to mention out of the Council Chamber anything that is done in it, how these facts leaked out no one can say. Perhaps they are not to be relied on, and will have to be contradicted.

The close of the Loring business caused considerable sensation, the public (I mean the Boston public) seeming to hold it quite impossible that the Judge could be removed. The Senate was appealed to by the conservatives to save him, but with no success; for that body concurred with the House in asking for removal, by a vote of 24 to 14. The President did not vote, and Mr. Field was absent, or the affirmative vote would have been 26. Thus the vote in the Senate was as large as it had been in the House, nineteen-twentieths exactly of the members voting in each body. This shows the interest the subject had excited, and how anxious were Senators and Representatives to stand fair on the record.

Having failed with the Senators, the conservatives determined upon appealing to the Governor, who was by them adjured not to allow society to go where King Nebuchadnezzar went—namely, to grass. Had one judged from their lachrymose talk, one might well have been excused if he had believed all the rogues of Europe were marching upon Boston, and that nothing could keep them out save the keeping of Mr. Loring in office. The eclipse of the sun, to be sure, had taken place, agreeably to announcement, but it was by no means certain that the occultation of the Pleiades, appointed for Friday evening, would happen if Governor Banks should not mind what he was about. There was a rumor in the morning that His Excellency would not remove the Judge, and conservatives looked jolly; but by high noon, just as they were thickest on 'Change, they learned that they had no other cause for being jolly except something very like what used to make Mr. Tapley so full of mirth. The deed was done! The Governor, backed by a vote of seven to two in the Council, had determined upon the removal, and a message was at that moment before the House stating his determination. I am bound to say that there was no perceptible change in the weather. The stones in the streets didn't rise, but considerable portions of the mud did, when it was hit by hoofs or wheels. Things went on the same as ever, and even some of the staunchest conservatives dealt as knowingly in stocks as they could have done had the Governor vetoed the address.

The Governor's Message to the House is a capital State paper, and shows that his Excellency is well up to his work. That he would escape curses, no one supposed, and most of the papers came down upon him on Saturday morning with vehemence. The Courier was able and savage. The Post was quite as savage as the Courier, but though usually clever, it manifested little ability on this occasion,—probably its passions marred its expression. The Journal was doleful as if it had lost a subscriber, and perhaps felt worse than any of the others because it had taken the victim under its especial protection, and had talked like a mother to Governor Banks upon the impropriety of cutting off the Judge's head. Even the Advertiser, though it is the official organ, expressed its regret at what had been done, yet did the Governor justice. The Traveller defended the removal, and so did the Bee. I have not seen any of the papers published out of the city, but I think most of them will be found to favor the decided course taken by the Executive, which, indeed, many of them had never ceased to call for.

The debate in the House on the reception of the Governor's Message was very interesting. General Cushing spoke at some length, evidently feeling about as comfortable as Mr. Guido Faux felt when he was nabbed in the midst of his powder. He pitched into the Personal Liberty act, and declared that that act should never interfere with his right to catch runaway negroes. As a "high private" in the militia he should always participate in such business, that coming under his idea of the "pursuit of happiness" specifically mentioned in the Declaration of Independence, and guaranteed by lots of constitutions and laws. Carried away by the patriotic ardor of the moment, he exclaimed, or might have done so, in the language of Ossian Epaminondas Alcibiades Xerxes Bragge, in his Vision of Ameriky:

> "Land of the fair-faced maid and wild racoon,
> Land of the bowie-knife and faultless trigger,
> Land of the glorious flag of stars and stripes,
> The only thing that's striped—except a nigger!"

As the general is in his fifty-ninth year, an age when even a Roman could have pleaded exemption from active service, the House was much struck with this display of patriotic zeal, though some members thought it was rather an odd commentary on Thackeray's philosophic assertion, that "grizzly hair the brain doth clear." But then the General is bald, with as much chance for a new crop on his crown as old Vagises had of raising one on the palm of his hand.

Mr. Andrew, who has been placed by circumstances and the exercise of his talents in the position of chief member of the Legislature, replied to General Cushing, and made the best speech of the session. He predicted the support of the Governor's course by the people, and the event will show that he spoke as a true prophet. It is possible that a thousand voters may change from friends of the Governor to enemies, because of his action in this business; but he'll be supported by ten thousand men who did not vote for him last year because they had doubts—unfounded ones, we now see—whether Mr. Banks had the nerve to do the work required of him. The smallness of the Straight Republican vote then excited surprise, but the chief reason of it was the Straights did not vote. They will now support Gov. Banks, and will compensate by their votes for all that he may lose by the act of removal, and give an immense spare margin. When I speak of the possible loss of votes to the Governor, I do so from deference to those who think differently from myself on the subject. Were the election to take place this week, the angry men might, and most probably would, vote against Gov. Banks; but as the election will not take place for seven months or more, it is certain that they will cool off, and perhaps admit the absurdity of fighting one who is invincible. Where would they go? Over to the Democrats? They would as soon think of going to Utah. Would they look for the Gardner Party's revival? If so, in which of the political churchyards of the land would they think of looking for it? Or, would they try to pull it up from the bottom of the Dead Sea, into which it was struck last Autumn by the lightnings of popular indignation? Governor Gardner has about as much chance of becoming a political leader again as Dives has of going on a skating party. His fall, was as the fall of Mulciber, only that he broke his neck by it, not his leg, and now can think as little as then he could run. Mr. Governor Banks has nothing to fear either from Gardnerism or Democracy. As for forming a new party, on the basis of Loringism, it is what no sane man would think of as being within the limit of possibility. Not that it would be anything new for an attack on an individual to cause such convulsions as might prove fatal to a powerful party, but because the individual in this instance is a poor creature, one of those abject things out of which no extent of imagination could manufacture even the smallest specimen of a martyr. Most martyrs, it is probable, were humbugs, and owe their characters to the absurd conduct of those who wasted good fagots on them; but Loring could not be even roasted into a martyr. What can be thought of a fellow who caught fugitive slaves con amore, and who zealously did that which no gentleman would do even on compulsion? There was a baseness, a downright, positive meanness about all the details of his conduct as a slave-catcher which excited a loathing and a disgust that rendered his removal inevitable, and would have brought it about three years ago, only that there was then another Loring in the Executive Chair. Even those who have contended most strongly for the Judge, heartily despise the man, and have been his champion only because they believed that a blow was aimed at the Judiciary through his person. To suppose that a man who took such delight in outraging the sentiments of Massachusetts, is likely to have many friends in Massachusetts, is to suppose that the laws of humanity are to be suspended in behalf of a silly, a vain-glorious and a stony-hearted egotist, who has not one solitary quality that can command respect or create enthusiasm. Ziska's skin made a good drum-head, but who ever thought of seeking to rally a party under the inspiration that proceeds from the skin of an ass?

The General Government is expected to take from Loring's cause whatever of moral power it may now possess, by making a national office-holder of him. The places named for him are various and lucrative. One of his friends says he is to be Judge Sprague's successor on the bench of the U. S. District Court; but, then, Judge Sprague is alive, and though old, and very feeble, is not disposed to give up his place. Another story is, that Mr. Beard's place, that of U. S. Sub-Treasurer, is to be given to the Judge, but, then, that has been assigned to Mr. Pratt, son-in-law of Mr. Choate, who is very hungry. Possibly Fletcher Webster's place may be put at the Commissioner's disposal, and Mr. Webster sent to Quito or Ichaboe, as Consul. But, then, it is possible that the Administration may give him nothing, for it is noticeable that precious few of those old Whigs who expected office have got it. They have been bought for nothing, and Government is not inclined to give them good offices.

I have filled my letter with this Loring matter, because it is all the rage here, and will be interesting to all of your readers who come from Massachusetts. Next time, I'll do better.

The removal of Mr. George from the District-Attorneyship of New-Hampshire, shows that the Administration means not to discontinue its proscription of Pierce men. Mr. George is the confidential friend of President Pierce, the most intimate personal and political relations having existed between them for years. Mr. Marshall, the new Attorney, is an unknown man, if not a new man. THYME.

YALE COLLEGE.

Results of the Riot in New-Haven—Three Students Expelled—The Investigation.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

New-Haven, Monday, March 22, 1858.

The Faculty of Yale College have at length determined upon the dismission of three members of the Junior Class on account of their connection with the unfortunate affray last February between the students and the firemen. As the most serious charge brought against any one of them is firing a pistol loaded only with powder, it is not worth while to mention names. The failure of the investigation before the city authorities has naturally caused much irritation among the firemen. Whatever sympathy the community at large may have felt for them, has certainly not been increased by a set of resolutions, signed by the foremen of the different companies, and published in Saturday's Journal & Courier. They call the students "lank, pusillanimous creatures, who claim an affinity to the human family, though noted for their swinish propensities;" charge them with "disregarding their solemn oaths;" with "boasting and exulting to the world at large in the death of their victims, with murderous blood reeking from their fingers' ends;" and with "having armed themselves with deadly weapons for the avowed purpose of further aggression on the members of the Fire Department." They say that "the assassin and his accomplices now walk the streets in open defiance of the law, seeking new victims for their murderous knives and cowardly bullets." And, in view of these appalling facts, the Board of Foremen call upon the firemen "to go fully prepared to defend themselves from all aggression, emanating from what source it may, even at the cost of life." They further resolve that "if in case of any difficulty with the students of Yale College, any fireman be arrested and brought before a magistrate, he be particularly guarded in his answers and say nothing that will subject him to a 'criminal prosecution.' In such cases every fireman must be a student—vide Judge Storrs' decision."

They appreciate the action of the College Faculty in annihilating the very exemplary and pious though murderous "Crocodile Club," respectfully ask that they go still further and forever expel the members of that Club from Yale College, and thereby use their influence in preventing any further difficulty which will inevitably happen if they remain.

Under-graduates sometimes make a noise in the world. The article in De Bow's Review on "The Progress of Federal Disorganization," which was made the text of an editorial in a recent number of the Times, and which it was then stated had attracted much attention at the South, was written by Ralph H. Cutter, of Louisville, Ky., member of the present senior class. It was previously offered to the editors of the Yale Literary Magazine, but was rejected on account of its length.

The Junior Exhibition of Yale occurs the present year on Tuesday, April 6. The class labors under peculiar disadvantages the present year; but the performances will, undoubtedly, be superior. Dodworth's Band furnishes the music, and gives a concert the preceding evening. W——e.

Liabilities of those who don't Train.

The liabilities of those who are subject to military duty, who do not belong to any military organization, and who are not exempt from duty by the laws of this State, or of the United States, do not appear to be clearly understood, if we judge from the number of correspondents who ask for information. And of those who do understand them, there are a large number who are curious in relation to the disposition of the money they pay for commutation or fines. To all such we say that the law requires that all persons liable to military duty shall be enrolled as such by the proper officer, in the district in which they reside, and notified to attend parades. If they do not belong to any uniformed company, they are liable to be called to duty in the ranks of the ununiformed militia, who have but one parade a year, and that is on the first Monday of October, or within ten days thereafter. All who are notified to attend such parade, and who wish to avoid the duty, may do so by paying the Receiver of Taxes seventy-five cents each, commutation money, on or before the day of parade. If they do not, and still fail to appear on parade, they are liable to a fine of three dollars each, unless able to furnish a satisfactory excuse to the officer before whom they are cited to appear. If no satisfactory excuse be given, and the fine be not paid at the expiration of thirty days a warrant may be delivered to the Marshal of the district, for its collection, and also an additional amount of twenty cents on each dollar. A refusal then gives the Marshal power to take and sell any property found, even to beds, chairs, or any household furniture. But he cannot send the delinquent to prison.

The moneys thus raised are paid into the Receiver of Taxes, the Collector deducting five per cent. for his services; and from them some of the expenses of the general organization are paid; and the remainder is divided equally among the various regiments of the Division. For instance, there are 15 regiments in this City, and there was collected for commutations and fines last year between $5,000 and $6,000. If all that was due had been collected, there would have been about $18,000. But, if persons fined refused to pay, extremes are seldom resorted to, as experience has shown that the cost and trouble of forced collections are more than they are worth. For that reason, the Fourth, Sixth, Eleventh, Fourteenth and Seventeenth Wards, which should produce a large sum for commutations and fines, yearly, produce very little. A majority of the people in them are very poor, and although they generally refuse to pay, they are seldom proceeded against.

Out of that money a Janitor is paid by the General Officers of the Division, for keeping the rooms in order. The yearly expense for gas is about $250, and the cost of enrolling is about $1,000, all of which is paid under the general head. The enrollment is necessary, aside from the collection of money. The law requires it, because on the members thus enrolled depends the quantity of arms the State receives from the United States. In consequence of the incompleteness of the enrollment through the State, the demand of arms from the United States has been as low as the third State in the Union, when it should have been the first by a very large amount. Besides the above there is a certain sum reserved to pay the expenses of courts martial, and about $1,000 a year is reserved for contingent expenses. The remainder, whatever it may be, is divided equally between the several regiments. Last year it amounted to between $350 and $400 each, and that sum was expended in paying regimental expenses. That sum, however, does not by any means pay the expenses of any of our crack regiments for a year. They all have eight parades a year, and the expense to the 7th Regiment at each parade for music and other regular expenses is more than $1,000 a year additional.

It is now in contemplation to secure the passage of an act, abolishing the commutation fee, and taxing the City $15,000 for military expenses. It is believed by those who take great interest in the City military, that such an act would secure more money to the service, be really less expensive to the City, and besides, the money would, in such an event, be paid by those who have property to be protected, in case of riot or invasion.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Explorations in Siberia—The Amoor River Navigable 2,500 Miles—Great Opening for American Commerce—Coal—Treaty with Russia—Mexican Protectorate—Protection is not Acquisition—Guano Islands and New-Bedford Whalers—Gov. Seward's Resolution.

From our Own Correspondent.

Washington, Saturday, March 20, 1858.

A resolution was offered in the House a few days ago calling upon the President for any information in his possession relative to the position of Siberia upon the river Amoor, its commerce, productions, and capacity for valuable commercial intercourse with the United States. I learn that the object of the resolution is to draw out from the State Department a very important report made to it by Major P. McD. Collins, of Tuolumne Co., California, who, about two years ago, was appointed Commercial Agent of the United States for the Amoor River region. The Major availed himself of his position to make quite a thorough exploration of the country, of which we have hitherto known quite as little as of Japan. The friendly feeling of the Russian Government for that of the United States secured to him opportunities for observation such as no other foreigner ever has had; and the results of his trip if properly appreciated and acted upon, bid fair to be exceedingly important and valuable to the United States.

Starting from St. Petersburg, Mr. Collins traveled eastward until he struck the river Amoor, at the head of navigation, and thence, with a guard of Cossacks to protect him, he proceeded down the stream twenty-five hundred miles, to its mouth. This noble river is represented as free from ice half the year. It penetrates a country full of valuable mines of both precious as well as baser metals, from out of which millions per annum are extracted. The soil is much of it fertile, producing grain; and furs, peltries, naval stores, and various other staple articles of commerce are there in the greatest abundance. The river, for the entire distance of twenty-five hundred miles, is navigable by steamboats, and free from obstructions of any sort. On an island near its mouth are extensive coal fields, the product of which is represented by those who use it upon the river steamers to be the best in the world. It is mined at a moderate cost, and can be profitably delivered in the San Francisco market at from six to seven dollars per ton, where English coal is sold at twenty-five dollars.

There is thus far no trade with the interior; indeed it is forbidden by the Russian authorities. The trade with the sea-ports is monopolized by a single San Francisco house, one Boston and one New-York house, who are represented to be doing a secret business there of over a million dollars per annum—their plan being to clear for Kamschatka or some other point in the North Pacific, and their return papers never showing that they have been in the Amoor. It is believed that a treaty can readily be negotiated with Russia, which shall give our citizens the right to navigate the river and trade upon its banks; and that under its operation we may at once secure a commerce of fifteen millions per annum, or more, a large portion of it, of course, paying rich tribute to San Francisco. The Russian Minister here, Baron Stoeckl, is said to be favorably disposed toward the treaty; and there is no doubt that General Cass will avail himself of this opportunity to secure so valuable a boon for his country.

The editor of the New-York Tribune is evidently satisfied that no reasonable objection can be offered to an American Protectorate over Mexico, to be established under the circumstances and conditions shadowed forth in the letters which I have had the honor to publish in relation to that subject. He attempts no argument against the Protectorate itself, but says it means "acquisition"—and upon that presumption bases a string of objections, long as the moral law, against the attempt to incorporate a great mass of incongruous material into the population of the Union. I have no disposition to discuss that point with him. I desire simply to repudiate the Tribune's amendment of the programme, and to suggest that as Canada is great, prosperous and happy to the north of us, without being of us, so there is not the least reason why there should not be south of us a great, growing and powerful Republic, in due time, without our absorbing it as a matter of course. What will the editor of the Tribune do with Mexico? Will he assist her to take care of herself, when it can be done without expense or injury to our own country—or will he see her fall to pieces and be absorbed by the United States or some European power? The alternatives will soon press for our choice. It seems to me that the way to prevent further acquisition of Mexican territory is, by aiding Mexico in working out her own regeneration, and so giving her vitality enough to remain an independent nation. Is it true that we are "such a nation of scoundrels," that we cannot lend our neighbor a helping hand without being overcome by the irresistible desire to steal all the possession and enjoyment of which we profess to protect her in? It may be so, "but it wouldn't be safe for a foreigner to come among us and say so." Such a man would have the Tribune after him with a vengeance—the same Tribune which so ferociously denounced the annexation of Texas as the most villainous transaction which a nation could conceive—and lived to see it consummated.

But my reviewer will say that the Protectorate will lead, inevitably, to acquisition. With due deference, there are wise men who do not think so. Grant that it is possible, how will it be brought about? If the Tribune writer has considered that point at all, his idea probably is, that the American interest will become so overpowering, in time, under the Protectorate, that the country will successfully seek admission to the Union. Well, if that should be, the very fact dissipates the bugbear of a foreign population—for will it not have been Americanized when its people voluntarily seek to become members of our great family? Or, has the Tribune suddenly become an "American" organ," bound to oppose the admission to fellowship of all men of foreign birth?

It is, perhaps, one of the most favorable signs of the times that the South is beginning to doubt the policy of further expansion of the territory of the United States except for the absorption of Cuba, when that can be accomplished. As a notable evidence of the fact, I cite the action of the Senate upon the Gadsden Treaty, which could never have obtained five votes if it had not been amended so as to exclude the purchase of any territory out of which it was at all likely that a State could ever be made. Other evidences are found in the declarations of eminent Southern statesmen, nearly all of whom distinctly express their desire that Central America and Mexico may become good neighbors, and yet not of our federal household. Let them remain nuisances a little longer, until they fall to pieces, and self-protection will compel us to further annexation, for the simple reason that territory and shattered Government can no more be permitted to float around without control, to the detriment of peaceable nations, than can an insane man be allowed to go at large and endanger the security of all with whom he comes in contact.

It is perhaps strange, but nevertheless true, that the very few gentlemen of intelligence with whom I have conversed upon this subject, and who oppose the Protectorate, are open, frank, avowed fillibusters, and in favor of territorial acquisition. Their argument is that we must and will acquire Mexican territory; and they distinctly recognize in the proposed Protectorate the most formidable barrier to their projects which can be devised. They are against it for that reason and that only. The Tribune's sympathy with their opposition constitutes another illustration of the maxim that "extremes meet."

Some days since Senator Seward submitted a resolution calling upon the President for all information in possession of the Government in relation to the "American Guano Islands." It is already known that a controversy has grown up between certain officers of the Navy and the Company claiming these islands. This having attracted the attention of the whalers of New-Bedford, fourteen of them have united in a letter to the Secretary of the Navy, in which, dating from personal experience, they state that in their opinion "voyages may be made to and from Baker's and Jarvis Islands with as much safety as in any other seas; that the idea of difficulty in landing upon said islands, or in taking anything therefrom, has never entered into our heads; that the reports of Commodore Mervine and Commodore Davis are in direct conflict with our experience." It will be remembered that Davis and Mervine reported the great danger of landing on the islands in question,—and also that there was no guano upon them. The New-Bedford whalers go on to say that they "deem it a duty to the interests of American commerce to state that we should anticipate not half the difficulty in obtaining a cargo of guano from either of those islands than we have often experienced in taking one old and ugly whale." It is a remarkable fact that while both the naval officers above named declare that there is no guano on the islands, they admit that they are covered with something transportable, which Mervine calls bird lime, and Davis "mere earth." It happens, however, unless a most stupendous swindle,—involving many gentlemen possessing the confidence of the community, in despicable meanness and unpardonable falsehood—that seventy tons of the Baker's Island "earth" has been scattered over the country in small parcels, through the Patent Office here and by the Company;—and so far as I can learn, the universal testimony is, that of all fertilizers, on sandy soil or worn-out lands, where nutrition is the desideratum, there is nothing equal to it. It is to be hoped that the disheartening reports of Mervine and Davis will not prevent further and practical efforts to prove whether or no the American flag covers deposits of fertilizing material, valuable alike to the farmer who needs it, and to the shipping interest which would find rich commerce in transporting it on the return voyage from the Pacific. Gov. Seward's resolution will at least bring out the documents, that they may be exposed to the test of examination and discussion.

In view of events likely to occur within a few months, the Home Squadron of our Navy may justly be regarded as the most important one afloat. Mexican, Central American and Cuban affairs are all in a critical condition, so far as our relations thereto are concerned. Under these circumstances it is of much importance that our Home Squadron should be commanded by an officer combining the essential requisites of professional skill, bravery, good temper and high social qualities—one who possesses and is worthy of the highest confidence of all who know him. Secretary Toucey evidently was alive to the exigencies of the case when he recently selected Commodore James McIntosh to succeed Commodore Paulding in the command of the Home Squadron. The officer thus selected stands among the foremost in the Navy, both as an officer and a gentleman; and there is no other who would be more prompt or more earnest in the prosecution of any just measure, having for its object the advancement of his country's honor or interest. In the practical application of the Monroe doctrine; in the establishment of a Protectorate over rich and beautiful, but misgoverned and distracted Mexico; in settling our relations with Nicaragua; in enforcing justice from New-Granada and Spain; and in keeping an eye upon Cuba, our Home Squadron is likely to have more than usual upon its hands during the next two or three years, unless I greatly mistake the purpose and policy of President Buchanan. I shall be disappointed if Commodore McIntosh does not prove to be fully equal to any emergency in which he may be placed, or to any mission which may devolve upon him in connection with these important questions.

Recent events have brought to light a pictorial representation of a personal collision which occurred in the old Continental Congress, at Congress Hall, Philadelphia, on the 15th February, 1798. The parties thereto were Roger Griswold, of Connecticut, and Matthew Lyon, of Vermont. Lyon spat in Griswold's face, and the latter beat him vigorously with a large cane. Lyon caught up a heavy pair of old-fashioned tongs, and "returned the fire." There were humorists in those days, as now, who readily improved the occasion to get up a taking caricature of the event. A copy of it now lies before me, having been exhumed by an "ancient" New-Yorker, and forwarded to this city, since the Grow and Keitt affair, as an evidence of the improvement in Congressional manners during the last seventy years. The picture is an exceedingly quaint affair—rudely engraved, in lines, apparently upon wood—and is a fair specimen of Art of its date. Congress Hall is represented as the scene of the pugilistic encounter. The combatants are placed in the centre of the room, with hair standing upon end, and features distorted horribly by rage. Griswold is in the act of bringing down his cane over Lyon's head,—and his foot seems moving with violent intent, at the same time, towards his antagonist's coat-tails, at the imminent risk of his own skin-tight knee-breeches. Lyon has seized Griswold's right arm with his left hand, and in his own right flourishes the tongs with which he is endeavoring to demolish his foe. In the Chair sits Jonathan Dayton, the Speaker, in nowise disconcerted by the entertainment, but looking as though he rather liked it. Below him, Jonathan W. Condy, the Clerk, is smiling a broad grin of satisfaction; Rev. Ashbel Green, the Chaplain, is peering out from one side, a deeply-interested spectator; two or three members seem to be cheering on the combatants,—but no one appears even inclined to interfere. A small picture hangs upon the wall, representing a cock-fight, over the inscription of "Royal Sport,"—and at the foot of the caricature I find the following doggrel description of the scene, viz.:

> "He, in a trice, struck Lyon thrice
> Upon his head, enraged, Sir;
> Who seized the tongs to ease his wrongs,
> And Griswold thus engaged, Sir."

Some of your pictorial papers would make a hit in reproducing the cut, which has been taken to Brady's Gallery here, to be photographed for preservation. S.

Arrival of the "Adriatic" at Savannah.

CAPT. DURHAM'S NARRATIVE OF HIS ADVENTURES.

From the Savannah Republican, 19th.

The American bark Adriatic, which became famous from her disastrous collision with the French steamer Lyonnais, in November, 1856, and still more an object of interest from her recent seizures by the French authorities at Marseilles, her confiscation by the Court of Admiralty, and her subsequent escape, arrived safely at this port at an early hour yesterday. We have had a long interview with her commander, Captain Durham, and as the facts connected with her escape are matters of national interest, we proceed to state them as briefly as the nature of the subject will allow.

The circumstances attending the collision with the Lyonnais are already familiar to the public. Capt. Durham is very positive that it grew out of no fault on the part of his own vessel, but resulted, as he alleges, from culpable mismanagement by the officers of the steamer. The judgment of confiscation was rendered by the Imperial Court of Aix in December last, and as soon as a copy was served on Captain Durham, believing that it was impossible, in the excited state of the public mind in France, to obtain justice, he resolved to make his escape if possible, and place the whole matter in the hands of his Government. Of course, he had to resort to stratagem to accomplish his purpose. Learning that the Adriatic would not be taken possession of until the full extent of loss by the Lyonnais could be ascertained, he improved the interval in devising the means of escape. He engaged a caulker and had her caulked all round for about five feet above the water's edge, under the pretext that she was so open, when the mistrals should set in, she would sink right there in the harbor. Capt. D. thinks there were no suspicions from this movement, for in the "noise and confusion" of the caulker's operations he and an assistant were quietly weaving the running rigging on board, and getting ready for sea. They worked at this business about three hours every night, say from nine o'clock till twelve, when there was much noise and it was so dark no one could either hear or see what they were doing. What provisions they got were put on board another vessel and from thence transferred to the Adriatic during the night. The crew was also shipped for another vessel, and subsequently taken on board the Adriatic, when they were so much intoxicated as not to be conscious of what was going on.

Captain Durham commenced getting ready to haul out about nine o'clock on the evening of the 8th January, his force consisting, besides himself, of Captain ——, the two mates and a boy. The vessel lay in the middle tier, about half-way up the harbor, with both anchors ahead and moored with a hawser astern. They bent the two topsails and maintopmast staysail where she lay. The vessel ahead of the Adriatic was made fast to the chain, and when the Adriatic slipped they let go the fast of the other vessel and hove her right into the middle of the harbor ahead of her. When the Captain awoke and found out his situation, and that his vessel was adrift, there was no end to his imprecations against the "d——d Yankees." Capt. Durham had no time to spare to his "sacres," but got clear of him as soon as he could and hauled down the harbor, nearly to the guard-ship, when he stopped to take on his crew and to make sail. The crew were got on board by four o'clock on the morning of the 9th; they then set the topsails, and putting four oars in the boat, put her ahead until the vessel got steerage-way.

When the Adriatic got abreast of the guard-ship, her boat came off and demanded the fort-pass of the former. Capt. D. when asked for his paper, replied "prennez garde là," and threw the officer a small bit of paper with two sous wrapped up in it. The paper and money however—whether by accident or design the Captain does not say—went over the boat and into the water, sinking to the bottom. The officer of the guard-ship then inquired for the name of the vessel, when Capt. D. sung out she was the American ship Luna, that had cleared the day before. Nothing more was heard from the official, and the Adriatic proceeded on her way.

As soon as the fugitive got clear of the harbor, a fine breeze sprung up from the eastward, and at daybreak she was abreast of Plainier, and three good miles off the French coast. The Adriatic then took her course for Spezzia, in Sardinia, the Captain expecting to find his ship's papers there, and also some American man-of-war, who might supply him with an anchor and such other articles as he stood in need of. She arrived at Spezzia on the morning of the 19th of January, and anchored with the kedge, having cut loose both anchors and left them at the wharf in Marseilles. There was no man-of-war in port, and her papers had not arrived. Having no bill of health, the Sardinian authorities would not permit her to land. Captain D. then went ashore himself to the pratique office, where he met the American Consul, who informed him that intelligence of his escape had reached there and that the French Government had telegraphed to all the ports in the Mediterranean to stop the vessel in whatever port she might be found. Soon after her arrival, orders came from Turin to seize the vessel, and the officers actually placed a gunboat under her stern, with two guns mounted, having received orders to fire should any attempt be made by the captain of the Adriatic to move from the spot. The next orders received were that the vessel should not be molested, but that none of her men were to be allowed communication with the shore, nor was anything to be sent on board of her, not even water, nor any other kind of assistance offered.

In a few days, upon further reflection, all these orders were withdrawn, and Capt. Durham allowed to take whatever he desired to his vessel—or rather, as he states, whatever he was able to pay for, which was very little.

Col. Lowe, the U. S. storekeeper at Spezzia, kindly furnished the vessel with all she wanted. Just as she got her provisions and water on board, there came on a fresh blow from the northward, and the vessel was riding by the kedge and forty-five fathoms of chain, with one of the chain-boxes filled with stones to back it, and a hawser bent to the other chain-box. She lay in what is called Penagallia Bay, with the wind blowing right on shore.

About 2 o'clock the vessel commenced dragging; all hands went to work and got sail on as soon as possible, cutting away one chain box and dragging the other by the point, by which she neared so closely that one might have jumped ashore from the deck. The vessel kept drifting until Capt. D. was compelled to run a hauser ashore to the lazaretto, where he made out to hold her, until he went to town and got his papers. Returning to the bark, he put to sea.

The day following the Adriatic boarded the ship Elizabeth Dennison, from whom she got more provisions and an anchor. She then had a beautiful passage of eleven days to Madeira, after first beating about for some time in order to put certain parties ashore who had no desire to take a trip to America. The voyage from Madeira to the United States was a long and tedious one, she having encountered, alternately, calms and head winds nearly throughout the passage. The crew finally exhausted all their provisions except a small quantity of beef, and it became necessary for the ship to make the nearest American port, Savannah, which she reached in safety, as before stated.

Upon the whole, the movements of the Adriatic have been truly eventful, and it remains to be seen what effect they are to have upon the interests of her owners and the relations of the two Governments, should our own sustain the vessel in her escape from the authorities of France. We have little thought of any serious results so far as the international aspects of the question are concerned.

Capt. Durham informed us that his freight from here to La Ciotat was about $5,000. He has received only about one-half of this amount; the balance is still held by the "Messagerie Imperial" Company by an attachment made by the agents of the steamer Lyonnais.

BOARD OF COUNCILMEN.

Branch's Manifesto.

Mr. Stephen H. Branch, the philanthropist, so strongly sympathizes with the "starving public creditors in the Albany tax levy," that he publishes the following as an advertisement:

To the Honorable the Common Council:

Gentlemen—Your petitioner respectfully represents that Mayor Tiemann has signed his claim; that he feels an increase of five pounds since the sweet event; that his heart glows with gratitude to those who voted for his claim, and to the Mayor, Comptroller and Chamberlain for its payment; that from the Chamberlain's he galloped into a clothing-store and shed his artificial skin, and reëclipsed his fragile form with Hamlet's sentimental mantle and immortal trowsers, and a Byronic collar of red, white and blue, and directed an African of Othello's hue, to profoundly inter his dilapidated coat, vest, pants, shirt and socks, in Potter's field, in its farthest north, so that a Greenland tempest could not waft the malaria of his venerable rags towards the metropolis, and breed a fearful pestilence; that he deposited his glittering lucre in three impregnable iron vaults, with granite inclosures; that his bank presidents, cashiers and clerks are sedate and quiet methodists of recent conversion, and violently abhor absquatulators; that he has emerged from dreary lanes and wharves, and walks proudly erect on our glorious Broadway, and beholds the celestial smiles and dimples of the pure and modest ladies, in whose graceful mould and bewitching aspect are concentrated all the beauties of an Italian rainbow, and the seraphs of eternal bliss; that he visits the commodious saloons and partakes of luscious viands, and exhales the entrancing perfume of an exhilarating principe; that amid all this joy and ecstasy of Elysium, he beholds a dark cloud, and is depressed, and warmly sympathizes with unfortunate public creditors, who implore him to raise his voice and wield his metallic rapier for themselves and dear companions and helpless innocents, who are deprived of nourishment and apparel, and subjected to the rapacity of the heartless Shylocks who bribe the Albanian legislators to impede the passage of the tax-levy, to enable them to purchase the public claims at two-thirds their value; that your petitioner cannot resist their mournful supplications, and with painful emotions discloses the following unparalleled rascality:

On the Saturday previous to the appointment of the Committees by Speaker Alvord, the Hon. George Weir (a member of the Assembly, and sub-editor of the New-York Sunday Atlas) told me that the Legislature, while considering the Tax Levy, would send for persons and papers, and thoroughly analyze my claim, and would doubtless reject it; and when the Speaker announced the Committee on Cities and Villages, to whom the tax levy would be referred, I must instantly repair to Albany and "see" the Chairman of that Committee, who would wield sufficient influence to affirm or reject my claim; that I must also "see" Anson Herrick, proprietor of the New-York Sunday Atlas, who had great influence among the Albanian legislators. I told him that I would die before I would thus degrade myself. He then repeated that if I did not "see" Anson Herrick and the Chairman of the Committee on Cities and Villages, (as soon as it was announced by the Speaker,) that my claim would be in great peril. Only two days after this extraordinary admonition, the Committee on Cities and Villages was divulged, and, incredible as it may seem, Mr. Weir was proclaimed its Chairman, which so alarmed me that I resolved to carry my claim at the point of the bayonet, rather than "see" Mr. George Weir or Anson Herrick, and I leveled my musketry at the heart and brain of Mayor Tiemann and his brave disciples, and carried the battery amid a hurricane of bullets, and ferocious charges with my piercing bayonets, and thus escaped the itching palm of Mr. Weir, who has had the tax levy in his relentless grasp since the 4th of March, for whose procrastination he should be drummed through the streets, amid the withering scorn of honorable citizens, who are requested to read the following extract from the New-York Sunday Atlas, of March 7, just three days after the tax levy was sent to Albany and placed in the hands of Mr. Weir:

"The tax levy is now in the hands of the Assembly Committee on Cities and Villages, of which the Hon. George Weir is Chairman. It is the duty of the Committee to scrutinize every item that makes up the eight and a half millions of dollars which that bill imposes upon the people of this City. There are, unquestionably, several items in the tax bill proposed, that ought to be stricken out before it is reported to the Assembly; and we know Mr. Weir so well, that we believe he will exercise a sound discretion in the consideration of the details that swell up the aggregate to such an enormous amount. It is expected that he will inform himself of the necessity for every dollar which this bill authorizes to be raised, and that he will materially reduce the aggregate from the amount to which it was swelled by the 'compromises' between the two Boards of the Common Council. We believe that hundreds of thousands of dollars ought to be stricken out of the bill now in the hands of Mr. Weir, before he reports it to the House. Let him send for 'persons and papers' in relation to some matters included in the tax bill, and he will soon satisfy himself that justice to the tax-payers demands a material reduction in some of the prominent items. Much of the money that bill provides for, is designed to slide into the pockets of adroit swindlers, who are eternally watching the treasury for a chance to steal. It is the duty of Mr. Weir to 'choke 'em off.'"

This invitation of Weir & Herrick, (editors of the New-York Sunday Atlas,) for the public creditors to call and "see" them, so clearly discloses their motives, that I deem their dissection as utterly superfluous. On the 21st of March, (last Sunday,) the New-York Sunday Atlas had the following precious intelligence: "Personal business required our presence at Albany last week, and a little leisure there afforded an opportunity to observe, with a 'scrutinizing eye,' the operations of the Legislative wisdom of the Empire State, and the movements of the army of interested gentlemen who throng the lobbies. The annual tax levy was reported from the Committee on Cities and Villages yesterday, without any material amendment, except the addition of $10,000 for counsel fees and legal expenses incurred by the Commissioners of Police in the litigation to which they were subjected by the resistance of Mayor Wood. After much deliberation and hesitation, the Committee concluded to allow nearly all the enormous bills embodied under the head of 'arrearages,' amounting to nearly $600,000. We presume there will be no unnecessary delay in pushing this important bill to its final passage; and there should be no further hesitation on the part of the Comptroller in paying the legitimate creditors and employes of the Corporation and the country."

In the first extract, Mr. Herrick urges Mr. Weir "to send for persons and papers" before he reports on the tax levy, and in the second extract (after Mr. Weir has reported favorably on the tax levy, with an amendment to increase it to $10,000,) Mr. Herrick goes to Albany on "personal business" and instructs Mr. Weir to advocate its passage with all the energy that God and nature gave him. Further comment would be an insult to the human understanding, as both extracts speak loudly for themselves, like the classic grocer's beans. The tax levy is still at the mercy of Mr. Weir and his legislative cohorts, whom he has mesmerized and controls like automatons, and it will be procrastinated down to the last hour of the session to enable the public creditors to "see" the mighty Chairman, and to enable the greedy purchasers of the public claims to prey upon the public creditors until the last night of the Legislature's existence, when the tax levy may fail at last, unless an overwhelming legion of the public creditors visit Albany, and "see" the unsullied Chairman of the Committee on Cities and Villages, and other spotless members of the Legislature. And now, (to corroborate the Christian motives of these mighty majesties,) I will briefly analyze another gigantic scheme, which is also under the supervision of Herrick and Weir. Just prior to the introduction of the "Balance Hydraulic and Sectional Dock bill" into the Legislature, Mr. Weir visited the Chairman of the Committee on Commerce, and coaxed him not to oppose the reference of that bill to the Committee on Cities and Villages, (although it properly belonged to the Committee on Commerce,) to which the Commercial Chairman assented, without "consideration." The Balance Dock managers have filled slips (that would float the English steamer Leviathan) with a dozen structures or floating ship-yards, to the fatal detriment of Metropolitan commerce. The Supreme Court has decided that the "Balance Hydraulic and Sectional Docks" are monopolies and nuisances, and paralyze the commerce of the metropolis. After the Balance Dock managers were cuffed and kicked from the Supreme Court, they knocked at the door of the Court of Appeals, where they have not yet got a favorable response, and will not on this side of doomsday. While loafing around the Court of last resort, and in anticipation of an adverse decision, they [illegible] at the door of the Legislature, where they are rapping like the Spiritualists, and smashing chairs, tables and crockery in their frantic efforts to get cushioned seats among the Albanian Legislators. When the Balance Dock bill reached the outstretched hands of Mr. Weir he scratched his palms so hard that his legislative comrades asked him if he had the itch. And when Mr. Weir reported favorably on the Balance Dock bill, he ceased to scratch his palms so hard as hitherto, although he still scratched a little, and will continue to gently scratch until his hands are entirely healed. Our most honorable merchants have visited Albany and ascertained that incredible sums were in the Capital to secure the passage of the Balance Dock bill. Last week Mayor Tiemann sent a message to your Honorable Body against the infamous proposition, and both Boards instantly and unanimously adopted the Mayor's patriotic views.

The Balance-Dock managers became terribly alarmed, and made a formidable effort to induce the Mayor to veto his own proposition. Instead of signing your unanimous adoption of his message against the Balance Docks, he very curiously hesitated, and what will be his final action time will soon disclose. There is no ordinary indignation among the merchants and laborers all over the City against the obnoxious dock measure, and if Mayor Tiemann is induced to reject his own message, and the Balance Dock managers purchase their odious scheme through the Legislature, over the Common Council and Supreme Court decrees, and over the wrath of all classes of the people, and while the constitutionality of the measure is pending before the Court of Appeals, it will rock the commercial world to its deep foundations, and lay the basis of interminable litigation, and encourage mercenary and unscrupulous adventurers to establish balance-docks wherever they please, and thus destroy the commercial facilities of our noble metropolis. Your petitioner, therefore, most fervently prays that your honorable body will petition the honorable members of the Legislature to immediately wrench the tax levy from the hideous jaws of the legislative sharks, and terribly rebuke the impudence of the Balance, Hydraulic and Sectional Dock managers, (who strive to seize the piers, slips and bulkheads of the City for non-commercial purposes,) and appoint a Committee to ascertain if the Hon. George Weir resigned a lucrative position in the New-York Custom-house to become a member of the Legislature for three months, at three dollars per day; and if Ex-Alderman Anson Herrick (naval officer) has passed a large portion of the last two months at Albany, to lobby against the payment of the starving public creditors, and to rob the shipping merchants of New-York of their noble water privileges, and thus destroy their commercial facilities, and paralyze the honorable industry of the toiling millions. And your petitioner also prays that you will closely watch the Committee on Cities and Villages in reference to the "Battery and East River Steamboat Removal bill," and the "Broadway and Parallel Railroad bills," and other prodigious schemes which are also before the prolific Committee on Cities and Villages for "consideration," whose friends or foes must "see" the Chairman of that omnipotent Committee, or hang up their fiddle with the bow. And he prays that you will petition the Legislature against the appointment of Mr. Weir as Chairman of the Grab and Grinding Committee, (to gouge and lobby bills in the last dark and mysterious hours of the session,) for which he struggles like a dying gladiator. And your petitioner will ever pray for similar justice and immaculate legislation. STEPHEN H. BRANCH.

The Florida Indians—Better Prospects.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday, March 13, 1858.

By the arrival of the steamer St. Mary's (bringing Col. Garrett and Mr. Johnson) we are in possession of the following Indian news: On the evening of the 10th February a warrior of Bowlegs' party, and a negro belonging to that chief, approached the station occupied by the delegation of friendly Indians. They were met by a few of the delegation and escorted into camp; left that night and returned next morning with another Indian, (brother-in-law of Bowlegs.) The hostile Indians again left camp on the 21st, after having made arrangements with Jumper to meet Bowlegs in four days. On the 27th Bowlegs, one of his principal men, a son of Assinwar, and one of the chiefs of Sam Jones' party—four in all—were having a "talk" with Major Rector, who is quite confident of his ability to induce all their people to emigrate. A general council will soon be held, at which the question of removal will be settled. Major Rector has declined the services of Gen. Blake, who is now in Tampa.

The friendly Indians in their scouts failed to find the hostile ones. The latter found the white flags, and came into camp without solicitation. This fact argues well for a favorable result of the negotiations now pending. The Indians wish to see the money promised them in case they consent to a removal. Assinwar, the elder, is wounded. He will meet the delegation to negotiate in behalf of Sam Jones' party as soon as he can travel.

Col. Garrett and Mr. Johnson are connected with the Indian delegation from the West—of which Jumper is a party—and are on their way to Washington to perfect some necessary arrangements previous to the Indians leaving Florida.

The general council was to meet on the 15th inst. TACONIE.

Book-keeping—Information Wanted.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I noticed a day or two since, an article signed by "A General Book-keeper," denouncing in a wholesale manner, Bank Cashiers generally, as incompetent and unfamiliar with double entry, and asserting that he could show up a system whereby fraud could not be practiced.

Feeling somewhat interested in any new plan which may be advanced in this progressive age to stop the frauds and double entries, à la Huntington, I would esteem it a particular favor to myself, and a lasting benefit to the community, if the above gentleman would give a brief synopsis of his views, as an eye-opener. Yours truly. COMMON CENTS.

Capt. Shaurman on the Foundling Case.

Sir: In your paper of to-day I notice an article, under the caption of "Foundling Hospitals Needed," in which some severe reflections are cast upon the Captain of the Third Precinct for allowing the child of Ann Murray to be put in the cells with her on the occasion of her arrest on Saturday night, March 6.

The facts of the case are briefly these: Ann Murray was brought to the Station-house on Saturday night, March 6, at 12 o'clock, considerably intoxicated. The child was almost dead from exhaustion, and no person could be found to take charge of it, in consequence of its squalid, miserable, disgusting appearance; and the child was not placed in her charge until she had become quite sobered, and until we feared it would die from starvation. The mother and child were not in the cells, but in the passage-way leading to the cells, beside a warm stove, and everything was done that could be to make them comfortable, and no blame can in any way attach to any person about this Station in regard to this case.

A CARD.—DURYEA STARCH DEPOT, NO. 201 FULTON-STREET.—NEW-YORK, March 6, 1858.—We take much pleasure in stating to our friends and the trade generally, that, although we have been recently visited by a devastating conflagration, which laid in ruins a large portion of our factory, located at Glen Cove, L. I., and consumed most of our finished stock on hand, we not only still live, but have determined, with all possible dispatch, to rebuild, and have already commenced the work on a still more extensive scale, and have no doubt that on or before the 1st day of July next we will again be in the market, with increased manufacturing and business facilities. The great and universal favor with which our Starch, and the new article, Maizena for culinary use, (of which we are the only manufacturers in the world, having secured to ourselves the exclusive right,) has been received; the acknowledgment of their superior merits by all who have used them, and the constantly increasing demand, have determined us in the belief that our interest lies in permitting no time to be lost in repairing the damages which have been sustained by the fire. In rebuilding, and in all future operations, we will be governed by the object which we have ever held in view, viz.: that of producing a starch which, in point of purity, strength, adaptation and in all respects, cannot be excelled. To our patrons we take this opportunity of expressing our acknowledgment for all past favors, and solicit a renewal of your custom when we again present our goods in the market, of which due notice will be given.
Yours, respectfully,
GLEN COVE STARCH MANUFACTURING CO.,
WM. DURYEA, Agent.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Royal Mail steamship Niagara, with one week's later news from Europe, is now due at Halifax from Liverpool. She had not been heard from at that port at a late hour last night.

In the United States Senate, yesterday morning, Mr. Green, of Missouri, had the floor on the Kansas question, and replied to remarks of Messrs. Seward and Douglas. He maintained that the Lecompton Constitution, in law and equity, was to be regarded as the expressed will of the people of Kansas. Mr. Green urged the passage of the Kansas bill as essential to the interests and consolidation of the Democratic Party. Mr. Crittenden declared his purpose to do right without regard to party, and believed that course best for the North and the South. He was an American, and his principal aim was to protect the ballot-box—the common [illegible] of American sovereignty. After Mr. Crittenden had concluded, some conversation took place, when Mr. Green withdrew the Minnesota bill, and moved that, without further debate, the Senate proceed to vote on the Kansas bill. He also moved three amendments, which were carried. (They will be found in the Congressional proceedings in to-day's paper.) One of these declares the right of the people of Kansas to amend the Constitution whenever they please. Mr. Pugh withdrew his amendment and substituted another relating to the Courts of Kansas—carried. Mr. Crittenden moved a substitute for the bill. Mr. Kennedy said he would support Mr. Crittenden's substitute, reserving his right afterwards to vote for Lecompton. Mr. Houston said he voted for Lecompton in obedience to resolutions of Texas. Mr. Pugh reluctantly voted against it because instructed. Mr. Crittenden's substitute was lost—Yeas, 24; Nays, 34. The bill as amended then passed—Yeas, 33; Nays, 25. In the House, Mr. Kellogg, of Illinois, concluded his speech against Lecompton. Mr. Singleton, of Mississippi, spoke in favor of the measure. Mr. Howard, of Michigan, made a speech against it. Mr. Burnett, of Kentucky, made a Lecompton speech in which he charged all the fraud and troubles in Kansas upon the Republicans. Mr. Blair, of Missouri, spoke against Lecompton, denouncing the faithlessness of the President and his friends to their pledges, and the conspiracy to smuggle Slavery into Kansas. He concluded by saying that the Democratic Party of the present day is as much the tool of the slave oligarchy as the negroes themselves. Mr. Wortendyke, of New-Jersey, would vote for Lecompton with a view to throw the negro question out of Congress at the earliest possible day. Mr. Potter, of Wisconsin, traced the present agitation to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. When he had concluded the House adjourned.

In the State Senate yesterday, the customary Grinding Committee, to prepare and hurry forward legislation, was appointed by the President. The bill to improve the discipline and promote the efficiency of the Militia, was ordered to a third reading. The bill to prevent public officers from accepting or using free passes over the railroads of the State was passed; also the bill relative to the new City Hall in this City. In the Assembly, a great variety of matters were acted upon, though nothing of material consequence was perfected. Mr. [illegible] introduced a bill relative to public education in this City, prepared with a view to the preservation of the City school system. A synopsis of its provisions will be found in our report of the proceedings.

On the 18th inst., two companies of infantry and two of cavalry left Fort Leavenworth to join the Utah expedition. They design overtaking Col. Hoffman, commanding the escort of the supply trains, consisting of one hundred and sixty wagons, destined for Col. Johnston's command at Camp Scott.

The Board of Aldermen, last evening, adopted a report adverse to the recommendation of the Mayor, that a building be erected in the City Hall Park, by the United States authorities, to be used jointly by the City and Federal Governments.

The Board of Governors had an excited meeting last evening. The report of the Blackwell's Island Building Committee, recommending that the new Hospital be built by the day's work rather than by contract, was adopted, in spite of very warm opposition from Governor Dugro. Governor Anderson moved that the practice of supplying carriages, spirituous liquors, wines and cigars to the institutions under the charge of the Board, be abolished. Governor Anderson presented a statement of the money expended for these things during the last six months. After a sharp discussion, in which nearly every member took part, the resolution was carried.

The Commissioners of Record sent a communication to the Board of Supervisors yesterday, stating that the Croton-water had been allowed to run all the night before in the Street Commissioner's office; that it ran through the floor into the Register's office, and injured seriously some 40 or 50 volumes of Records. They recommended that the water be cut off in the offices of the Street Commissioner and Comptroller, as a similar accident had occurred four times. The Mayor sent a similar communication to the Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Commissioners of the Central Park met yesterday. A letter from Hon. August Belmont, accepting the office of Central Park Commissioner, to which the Board had elected him, in place of Hon. James E. Cooley, resigned, was read, and directed to be entered in the minutes.

The present season is marked by a great number of disasters to vessels propelled in whole or in part by steam, accounts of which have from time to time appeared in the columns of the Times. Two more have recently occurred. The steamer [illegible] was wrecked on Block Island on Sunday morning, and at last accounts was fast breaking up. Only portions of her cargo can be saved. No lives were lost. On Sunday also, on the Ohio River, the steamer St. Lawrence, bound to New-Orleans from Pittsburg, struck on the rocks and sunk, and will be a total loss. A part of the cargo will probably be saved in a damaged condition.

George Dean, a German, living in Second-avenue, yesterday, preferred a complaint of vagrancy against a step-daughter 16 years of age. The latter, on being arrested, charged her step-father with compelling her to enter upon a life of prostitution, and support him from her earnings thus obtained. The Mayor committed both for further examination.

The Coroner concluded his inquest upon the body of [illegible] Pandeen yesterday, and the verdict found Daniel Cunningham guilty of the unjustifiable homicide. Cunningham was committed. His examination and Pandeen's burial come off to-day.

The General Markets, yesterday, presented no really new feature for Cotton, Flour or Wheat. Corn was less abundant, and closed a shade higher. Provisions, especially hog products, were more sought after. Mess Pork advanced slightly. Coffee and Sugars were in fair request at very full rates. A fair business was transacted in common Resin and Linseed Oil at steady prices. There was less activity in Freights.

Victory of Lecompton in the Senate.

Fine by degrees and beautifully less grow the points upon which Mr. Buchanan is making his stand against the disorganizers of the Democratic Party, and the rapidly-growing demonstrations of the popular sentiment of the nation. At seven o'clock last night, the Dymock of the reigning dynasty, Mr. Green, of Missouri, flung down his champion's gauntlet in the arena. The Administration forces were led into action, as the partisan journals have it, and the fate of Lecompton was speedily sealed in the Senate. By a vote of 33 ayes to 25 nays, the bill for the admission of Kansas into the Union under the Lecompton Constitution, was finally passed. But what a bill it is; and after all how dismal a triumph! Mr. Crittenden's substitute, advocated by him in a speech which stands out from the Southern record of the present session in a glory of true national statesmanship, had been voted down, and with it the principle that the people of Kansas should sit in judgment upon the organic law under which they are to live and move and have their being. Immediately thereupon Mr. Green amends his own bill by inserting an express declaration of "the right of the people of Kansas to modify their Constitution at any time." And this is the bill which the Government, by terrible stress of party influence, patronage and speech-making, finally succeeds in pushing to a majority—a bill which concedes, in substance, precisely what Mr. Crittenden's amended act had aimed to secure, and offers to the South the barren fruit of a merely technical victory, absolutely empty of any value, dignity or force. It is the play of "Hamlet," with the part of Hamlet omitted. Kansas must take the Lecompton Constitution with the understanding that she is to tear it in pieces the moment she receives it. Could anything more clearly show how desperate the position of the Administration is felt by all its friends to be?

Nor is this all. The attempt to browbeat the North by linking the fate of Minnesota in a Mezentian union with that of Kansas was also abandoned. The echoes of the protest raised on Monday night by Mr. Douglas in the Senate have not yet reverberated with all their force from the House of Representatives; and it is plain that the audacity even of the most extreme among the men who have been urging on the President, in his sadly mistaken career, begins to subside at the approach of the final and decisive action of the National Legislature upon this wild attempt to override practical justice and the ethics of law-making in the interests of sectional abstractions. A very few such "victories" as that of last night would leave the Government powerless for all administrative good. This Mr. Buchanan himself must surely begin to see, and we seriously doubt whether a defeat of Lecompton in the House would not be hailed as a grateful relief by the very government which has thus far urged this frantic issue forward.

Douglas' Kansas Speech.

Senator Douglas made a speech of characteristic boldness and power on Monday night. He went to the Senate from a sick bed, suffering greatly from physical debility, to discharge his duty by opposing the Lecompton bill. The chamber was thronged, as it is only on great occasions. Galleries, lobbies, floor, even the seats of members, were filled with spectators. A crowd of ladies had been for hours awaiting the time when the Illinois Senator should come.

Mr. Douglas' appearance was greeted with demonstrations of applause, which testified how strongly the popular heart is moved by the spectacle of duty contending against wrong and defying power.

Notwithstanding the prostration of his bodily strength, Mr. Douglas spoke three hours. The readers of the Times found, in a part of our morning edition, yesterday, a full sketch of his remarks by telegraph.

The conspicuous position which Mr. D. occupies in the Lecompton controversy cannot fail to attract public attention in an unusual degree, and the persecution he has incurred at the hands of the Administration only strengthens his position before the country.

The leading point in Mr. Douglas' speech is really the main issue in the whole matter. It is that the Lecompton Constitution is not the act of the people of Kansas. Whether that instrument favors Slavery or not; whether it makes Kansas a free State or not, are questions very interesting in themselves. But they have nothing to do with the question of admission. Southern men would prefer Slavery; Northern men Freedom: but if the Constitution presented is in fact and in truth the expressed will of the people, Congress should admit Kansas into the Union without delay. On the contrary, if Lecompton is not their act, it should be rejected. This view is presented by Mr. Douglas in a light at once convincing and overwhelming.

It is fortunate that the distinguished Senator from Illinois was able to appear in the Senate before the conclusion of the debate; for if Kansas is saved the infliction prepared for her by the Administration, the fact will be due in a preëminent degree to the stand he had the courage to assume at the opening of the present session.

A Grinding Committee.—Information comes from Albany that the President of the Senate has "appointed the Annual Grinding Committee."

Have the conscript fathers gone into the milling business? Capitol Hill would be an excellent site for a wind-mill. Is wind the moving power in legislative grinding? Some there are who say so. How many grists can be put through before the end of the session? Not a tithe, we imagine, of the quantity piled up in the State mill.

But what kind of grinding is this Committee to perform? Various sorts have been mentioned in history. We read of those who grind the faces of the poor. Is that ever done in Albany? Opposition grinds its victims, but not in our happy land. Two women (the Scripture saith) shall be grinding at a mill—but in this case it is done by eight men.

We could wish the Committee had been appointed a month ago. Little time remains for business. The meal will be coarse, and the bran ill separated. Favored customers may have their grists or their axes ground, while others must stand back for want of time. Grinding goes by favor, and unconscionable tolls are sometimes taken by those who run the mill.

Fate of Mexico.

Honorable Caleb Cushing lately delivered a lecture before some Democratic Association in Boston, in which he attempted to explain the cause of the chaotic condition of governmental affairs in all the Spanish American Republics on this Continent, but especially in relation to the Republic of Mexico, which has the finest country and the worst government of them all. He first drew a most flattering and gorgeous picture of the stability and prosperity of the United States, of the Empire of Brazil, and of the Spanish Islands of Cuba and Porto Rico, proving that neither governmental principles, Spanish blood, nor the effects of climate had anything to do with the wretched condition of affairs in Mexico and the other provinces of New Spain. In these United States we have an Anglo-Saxon people and a Republican form of Government. In Cuba there is the Spanish race and all the forms of a Monarchical Government, and in Brazil there are the Portuguese and an Imperial form of Government. Yet, in all three, the governments are stable, and the people have reached the highest pinnacle of prosperity. But in Mexico, with a fertile soil, a temperate climate, and magnificent mineral resources, the government is a chaos, and the people are degraded, poor, ignorant and ferocious, and utterly incapable of governing themselves. Yet there was a time when that now distracted country was prosperous and happy, under the rule of the Viceroys, when private Mexican gentlemen were able to make New-Years' presents to their Spanish Sovereign of line-of-battle ships, fully equipped for sea. But, since Mexico gained her independence, she has gradually fallen into decay, until she now presents the most melancholy and deplorable spectacle of any country on earth, having a people incapable of governing themselves, and seemingly unable to be governed. That Spanish Americans are capable of being governed was proved by the Mexicans themselves while they were ruled by the Viceroys, and as is shown now by the people of Chili; but that the Mexicans are incapable of forming any system of laws for their own government has been satisfactorily established by more than thirty years' trial.

It is very clearly indicated in the almost incredible number of changes the governmental policy and the executive chiefs of the country have undergone. From the year 1535, when the first Viceroy was sent out from Spain, until the year 1821, when the Independence of the country was acknowledged, Mexico was governed by sixty-one viceroys, whose terms of service extended over a period of two hundred and eighty-six years, giving to each viceroy rather more than one of our Presidential terms. But, since Mexico became independent, in 1821, she has had, of one kind and another, Regents, Captains-General, Governors, Presidents, Dictators, and an Emperor, no less than sixty-five chief executive officers. Some of the Presidents did not hold their office more than a week. And very few of them either went into office or out of it in a constitutional manner. A country that changes its Chief Executive officer more than sixty times in the course of thirty-seven years cannot be said to have an inherent ability of self-government.

Mr. Cushing attributes the whole cause of the difficulty in the Spanish American provinces to the circumstance that the Indians were permitted to enjoy the same political privileges with the whites, and dates the downfall of Mexico from the time of the first insurrectionary movement, which broke out in the province of Guanajuato, headed by the dissolute priest Hidalgo, whose object, according to Mr. Cushing, was the extermination of the entire white race in New Spain. This insurrection was quelled, but others broke out, and the result was the triumph of the rebels, and the elevation of the blacks and Indians to what he calls "an impossible equality with the white race." And he predicts that the same desolation and misery which have fallen upon Mexico, would also be the sure doom of this country if we should ever madly follow the example of the Spanish-American Republics, and admit the red and black races to share with us our glorious political privileges. But there is so very little danger of such a contingency ever happening, that it is hardly worth while for anybody to make himself unhappy by anticipating such an event. The superior race must always rule the inferior one, and if the Spanish-Mexicans have permitted themselves to be overpowered by the aboriginal race, it was because the Spaniards had themselves become the inferior people.

But, whatever the cause of the decay of Spanish power in the new world may be, the melancholy truth is not to be denied, and the necessity of foreign intervention to give a stable government and prosperity to the people of Mexico, cannot be questioned. There are no signs of recuperation among the Mexicans. Every year they sink into a more degraded and anarchical condition; the evils which distract them are radical and constitutional, and there is no possibility of a self-generating remedy for their disorders. If they are cured at all, it must be by exterior administration. A country like Central America, with a sparse population and an unhealthy climate, must wait for the slow process of foreign emigration, but a country like Mexico, with a great population, large cities, a fertile soil, magnificent mineral resources, and a salubrious climate, ought not to be allowed to run to waste for the lack of efficient governmental machinery. A new Cortez is needed to reconquer it. It is the saddest conceivable spectacle to see a whole nation falling into vagabondism and anarchy for the lack of a ruler to keep them in subjection. Mexico has once importuned one of our Generals to become her President; and, after a few years more of internal wars and intestine suffering, she will probably find that there is no hope for her but to put herself wholly under the sheltering folds of our flag.

The Elopement of the Adriatic.

Captain Durham, of the bark Adriatic, has now published his own version of his own story. Divested of all technicalities, the account which he gives of himself and his proceedings may be very briefly summed up in a single phrase. He is, by his own confession, a fugitive from justice. He ran away from Marseilles because he thought that in the "excited state of the public mind in France," he should be unfairly treated in the courts in which his case was pending. Of the breach of parole with which he has been charged he says nothing whatever, and in so far as that particular aggravation of his conduct is concerned, a patriotic regard for the national character requires us to give him the benefit of a wholesome doubt. But he clearly manœuvred himself out of the way of a "decree of confiscation," and gave the slip to the officers of the Court of Aix, quite as cleverly as Sheridan himself could have done after his natural wits had been sharpened by long experience of bailiffs and of bills. Dodging the Sheriff is not commonly regarded as a very heinous crime. Many illustrious men have been successful practitioners of the art, and Captain Durham may take his place with them in the annals of Bohemian astuteness. But he must not expect his countrymen to take quite as much pleasure and pride as himself in a proceeding which has saved the pockets of Captain Durham somewhat at the expense of the general reputation of Americans for an honest disposition to face all claims, and to defend their rights in an open and manly way.

The attempt to hatch from this affair a vast number of canards, quacking forth rumors of a "grave international dispute between France and the United States," has, we are glad to say, signally failed. The New-York Herald, in espousing, as was but natural, the cause of Captain Durham, and in complacently patting that lucky runagate upon the back, said, with unusual good sense, that "Napoleon III. would no more think of reclaiming Captain Durham diplomatically than of sending an envoy after any American student who should leave Paris without remembering to pay his tailor." The comparison was not very flattering to the Captain, and hardly friendly, but it was quite just. Captain Durham and his owners, we think, may safely rejoice that "nothing is lost hors l'honneur." They have their ship, and will keep her.

But the affair should not be suffered to pass away without an inquiry by our Government into the claim of jurisdiction made by the French Court over the Adriatic for an alleged offence committed on the high seas. We are certainly at a loss to know under just what code of maritime or international law this claim was advanced, and the conduct of Captain Durham is the more to be regretted that it has deprived us of an excellent opportunity of testing a question already important, and yearly growing in importance to the whole commercial world. The risk of collisions at sea must of course increase in the same ratio with the application of steam to ocean navigation, and with the multiplication of vessels trading in the frequented pathways of the Atlantic, between Europe and America. It will soon, therefore, become absolutely necessary that some general system should be adopted by the maritime nations for securing greater safety to their ships, and for punishing all departures from a generally recognized code. No such code now exists, and we may be pardoned for our disinclination to accept it at the hands of the French tribunals, since no people are so little disposed as the French to put faith in the justice of other nations in any question between a Frenchman and a foreigner. The whole French code is pervaded with a lurking distrust of foreign law and foreign courts, which betrays itself very plainly in all the articles which treat directly of issues raised between French citizens and the subjects of other States. In all matters of personal litigation and questions of contract the laws of France authorize a French defendant to decline admitting the competence of any tribunal but that of his own domicile; while they refuse to a foreign defendant the privilege of a like recourse to his own Courts. This jealous and unfair distinction is even carried so far as to permit a French citizen to cite a foreign defendant before a French tribunal on an obligation contracted in the foreigner's own country.

While, therefore, we must be excused from echoing the extraordinary suggestion of one of our City cotemporaries that Capt. Durham should be honored like certain other famous refugees with a "public reception," we trust that the opportunity afforded by his case will not be lost sight of by our Government, even though the foolish, and more than questionable, course which the Captain thought fit to adopt has somewhat impaired its value; and that the law of the ocean may be taken out of the hands of isolated national tribunals by a grave and definite understanding between the leading maritime powers.

Annoyances in Railroad Cars.—A correspondent complains, in a communication which we publish to-day, of sufferings endured from open windows in cars. Many passengers, and especially ladies, he avers, are in the habit of greatly discommoding those around them by pertinaciously keeping open the windows next which they sit, thus admitting a draught of cold air, which is not only uncomfortable, but often detrimental to health. What our correspondent says, in this regard, is true; but there is another side of the case which he touches far too lightly. In most cases the windows and doors furnish the only means of ventilation. The atmosphere of a crowded car soon becomes absolutely pestiferous, and if no fresh air is allowed to come in, is far more injurious than cold or cross-currents can possibly be. Doubtless, the persons of whom our correspondent complains—the ladies, especially, whose aversion to foul air is more acute that that of men—are actuated by a desire to escape breathing poison. The fault lies not so much with them as with the constructors and owners of the cars, who neglect to provide for sufficient ventilation. Want of good air, especially in Winter, is the greatest nuisance of railroad traveling in this country, and kills more persons than all the accidents of which we read such shocking accounts. Let this deficiency be remedied without delay. Warmth is a very desirable comfort, but wholesome breathing an indispensable necessity.

Signs of Returning Business.—The pleasantest intelligence we receive from the neighboring States, and from the interior towns in our own State, is that in relation to the resumption of work by the various manufacturing establishments that have been lying idle the past four months. Many of the mills which had been working short time have resumed full work, and many that had been altogether closed have been again put in running condition. The effect of the resumption will be immediately felt, not only in the immediate vicinity of the establishments where the chorus of mingling anvils and the buzz of revolving wheels are again heard, but here and in the other great dépôts of commerce whence the manufacturing districts draw their supplies of raw materials, and where they send their goods to be sold. The jobbing interests in this City have felt severely this Spring the effects of the suspension of the mills in the great manufacturing towns, and there is no class of our merchants who will be more directly benefited by their resumption of work. There are signs of reviving business in every direction, but our wholesale dealers have not, in many years, according to the general reports, had so light a trade as they have experienced the present season. But there is some comfort in knowing that if the times might be better for our jobbers, they might, too, be a good deal worse, and looking back to the dismal prospects of last November, the present condition of commercial affairs may be called decidedly brilliant.

Solitary and Alone.—The Boston Bee claims to be the only paper in that city which "unqualifiedly indorses" the removal of Judge Loring. Considering that there are several other able and respectable journals of the same party in Boston, the fact of which the Bee boasts should inspire both it and Governor Banks with sincere regret. That partisan vengeance must be of questionable expediency which, out of half a dozen Republican papers, can command only one "unqualified" admirer.

Governor Banks' friends have urged him to an ill-advised act. Loring may have been unpopular, but a principle has been violated in his vindictive removal which good citizens are wont to regard as sacred. The Governor of Massachusetts and his political friends will regret the step they have taken. There are indications that they do so already.

☞ Everybody who has ever been charmed by the rich voice and refined method of Miss Nathele in the concert room, or by the inimitable religious vocalism of Mrs. Bodstein in Grace Church, will be glad to know that the congregation to whose service this accomplished lady has of late years devoted her talents, propose to pay her the well-deserved honor of a complimentary concert. The concert will take place to-morrow evening at Niblo's Saloon, and the programme, though not publicly announced, will be so constructed as to be amply worthy of the society who offer, and of the lady who is to receive, this token of good will and of respect. If good wine needs no bush, surely such music as is reserved for to-morrow evening needs no preliminary fanfaronade of words, for the most elegant concert of the season can hardly be the least successful.

Amusements.

Academy of Music.—The "Huguenots" will be given to-night for the last time but one. Mme. La Grange has entirely recovered from her indisposition, and will sing the music of Valentine.

Eisfeld's Soiree.—Mr. Eisfeld's fourth classical soirée (eighth season) was given last evening at Dodworth's rooms. The programme opened with Schumann's quartette of 41—a work more remarkable for skill than genius; and, after a little vocalism by Miss Brainerd, passed to Schubert's trio No. 2, a work remarkable for genius and skill. In the whole range of chamber music it is not possible to find anything more delicious than this trio. In each movement there is a distinct melodic form, glistening like a classic statue amid clusters of wild flowers and lovely sculptured fragments. We have never heard this work better interpreted than it was last night. Mr. Gustave Satter, the Boston pianist, played the piano partition. It is no praise to say that Mr. Satter kept the mechanical difficulties entirely out of sight, by conquering them with an ease which did not even suggest their existence. This Mr. Satter can do with any composition. But he did more: he delivered each musical phrase with the rounded elegance of a poet and the sequential judgment of a logician. Rarely has such a thoroughly admirable performance been heard here or elsewhere. The audience, thoroughly awake to this circumstance, called for Mr. Satter after the trio was over, and that gentleman came forward and played the overture to "William Tell"—beginning well and ending less well. After the labors of Schubert's long trio, this self-imposed task was too great, and the weary fingers sought relaxation in places not contemplated by the player. In its mildest form, the overture to "William Tell" is one of the most difficult of pieces; a heavy concert version is scarcely the thing for an encore.

The programme ended with Mozart's quartette No. 1. Mr. Eisfeld's little band of players was in capital condition, and played with great spirit. The concert was one of the best and most interesting of the season. Miss Brainerd was the vocalist of the evening, and sang a couple of solos of the common concert pattern with good spirit, and to the entire satisfaction of the audience.

The Great Awakening.

The people of Staten Island are not asleep. Some time ago a few gentlemen of the Rev. Mr. Thompson's Church formed a Young Men's Christian Association on the island, which is now in efficient operation. At a meeting on Saturday evening the young men concluded to open their rooms on Beach-street, at Stapleton, opposite Mr. Ludlow's store, for a union prayer-meeting. The exercises will commence each morning at 7¾, and close at 7¾ o'clock, thus affording those who cannot attend evening meetings in the churches an opportunity of participating in and profiting by the present revival. Business men, too, coming to New-York by the boat which leaves at 8, can avail themselves of a half hour of prayer preparatory to beginning their business.

In the Ninth Ward a union morning prayer-meeting of great and increasing interest, has been held daily since the 1st of March, in the lecture-room of Dr. Gordon's Church in Seventh-avenue. During the worst weather of the season, at the early hour of 6 o'clock, the attendance has been large.

New-Jersey Items.

The hat and fur store of Mr. Wm. Ward, corner of Montgomery and Warren streets, Jersey City, was entered by burglars during Monday night and robbed of goods to the value of about $200.

The coal office of Mr. R. B. Wakeman, in Hudson-street, was also entered the same night, but the thieves failed in getting any booty. The safe, however, bore evidence of having been well tried.

The residence of Mr. Davis, in South Fourth-street, near Jersey-avenue, was entered by burglars at an early hour on Monday morning, and money and goods stolen to the value of $25. An unlocked trunk, containing $300, escaped the notice of the thieves. No arrests have been made in any of these cases.

The Boston Bee contradicts the current report of an approaching change in its politics and editorship.

Jones vs. [illegible] & Brooks.—A paragraph appeared in the Times of Saturday, alluding to certain proceedings before the Recorder in the suit of Jones vs. [illegible] & Brooks, the well-known [illegible]. That any such statement as that contained in the paragraph referred to could [illegible], we are assured, [illegible]. Of course no [illegible] will be attached to an offer of evidence [illegible] improper, and so far, therefore, as Messrs. [illegible] & Brooks are concerned, the statement does [illegible] them in the least.

The Recorder's decision in the case of [illegible], charged with complicity with [illegible] in the Union Bank defalcation, was postponed from [illegible] day until Saturday next, owing to the great pressure of the Recorder's business.

Nine women who were arrested in Broadway on Monday night were sent up for six months each, as vagrants, yesterday.

Police Intelligence.

Serious Charge against a Step-father.—A curious case came up before the Mayor yesterday. George Dean, a German, preferred a complaint against Matilda Black, his step-daughter, charging her with running away from home and leading an abandoned life. He wished to have her sent to Blackwell's Island as a common vagrant. Upon his complaint the girl was arrested and brought before the Mayor. Being questioned by the Mayor, she admitted that she was living in a disreputable house in Cherry-street, but said that her father was wholly to blame for it. About six months ago, she said, her mother died, and three days after she was buried her step-father took her to a low den of prostitution in [illegible]-street, and compelled her to enter upon an abandoned course of life. Ever since this time he had been daily levying contributions upon her for his support. She declared at length that she would not give him any more money, and it was on this account that he had her arrested. Ellen Rivers, who keeps a dancing-den in Cherry-street, stated that Matilda was living with her at the present time, and she had known her ever since she had "turned out." She corroborated the statements of the girl that her step-father had compelled her to give him money, and stated further that she had known of his forcing her to pawn her rings and clothes in order to raise money for him. The witness also swore that the complainant formerly compelled a sister of the accused to furnish him with money in the same way; that this sister had been driven from home by his cruelty, and compelled to lead a life of debauchery; that some months ago she was married and moved with her husband to Hoboken; and that the complainant attempted to get money from her husband, but that the latter gave him a good beating, and he never ventured to repeat the application.

The Mayor decided to commit both parties temporarily, until a more extended examination could be made. The complainant is about 45 years of age, coarse-featured, and was shabbily attired. The girl has rather a handsome face.

Selling Unhealthy Meat.—Felix [illegible] and William Brown were arrested yesterday, by Officer McConnell, of the Seventeenth Ward, in the First-avenue, for retailing unwholesome veal out of a wagon. Allen Thomas, a butcher, at No. 44 [illegible]-street, testified that the meat was what is called "bob meat"—that is, too young to be eaten, and which, if eaten, would engender sickness. The accused were taken before Justice [illegible], and held to answer.

Young Burglars Arrested.—Two young fellows, giving their names as Charles Anderson and James Williamson, were arrested, yesterday, charged with breaking into and robbing the grocery-store of Messrs. Porter & Dodd, No. 325 Pearl-street. A quantity of skeleton keys, jimmies, lock-picks, and other burglars' tools were found on the premises. They were held for trial.

Unlicensed Junk Shops.—The Harbor Police yesterday arrested 11 unlicensed junk-shop keepers. The Mayor fined them $10 each, which most of them paid. During Monday night the Harbor Police arrested nine men found plying small boats in the harbor without license. These were fined $5 each; three of them paid, and the rest of them were locked up in default.

Coroner's Inquests.

Death from Burns.—An inquest was held yesterday at No. 80 Park-street on the body of Catharine Clancy, who was found burned to death on Monday. The deceased has been in poor health for some time, and it is supposed was seized with a fit and fell into the fire. Verdict—"Accidental death." Mrs. Clancy was 45 years of age, and has left a family of children destitute.

Found Dead in Bed.—Alexander W. [illegible], a hatter, was found dead in bed yesterday morning at his boarding-house, No. 72 Ann-street. He went to bed on Monday night in apparent good health. He was 40 years of age, and has left a wife and daughter at Brattleboro', Vt. An inquest will be held on the body to-day.

Fires.

Fire in West Seventeenth-street.—At 11 o'clock yesterday morning a bed caught fire in the second story of the tenement house No. 175 West Seventeenth-street, in the apartments occupied by John Brady. A few pails of water extinguished the fire.

Fire in Ninth-avenue.—At a few minutes to 11 o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in No. 290 Ninth-avenue. It was speedily extinguished, with trifling damage.

Brooklyn City Items.

The election for Ward and City Officers of Brooklyn, takes place on Tuesday, April 6, under a new law. Hereafter, but one Alderman, instead of two, is to represent each Ward. The Common Council have ordered the election and given the required notice. It was feared that the election would go by default, and then Democratic of course. But, judging from present appearances, the people will for once take their own business into their own hands, and lay aside party for the public good. The outrageous frauds perpetrated at the primary elections have quite disgusted many of the rank and file, and in many wards two Democratic tickets are run. In the Seventh, for instance, according to sworn affidavits, one of the inspectors emptied out of his sleeve into the cigar box that held the ballots just before they were counted, more votes than were legitimately cast! and a good many are not disposed to stand it. In the Nineteenth and some other Wards, swill milk will be the issue, and a great fight will be fought over it. The Americans generally abstain from separate nominations and go for the best men, and those nominated under the best auspices.

The libel suit commenced by Lewis H. Putnam, a colored man, against Anson G. Phelps, President of the New-York State Colonization Society, came on yesterday, in the Circuit Court, before Judge Lott and a Jury. The plaintiff professed to be engaged in developing the agricultural capacity of some portions of Africa, and in a general endeavor to ameliorate the condition of his race. The defendant, under his own signature, in the columns of the New-York Evening Post, under date of August 8, 1854, pronounced the plaintiff an impostor, and warned the public against him. The case attracts considerable attention, as the operations of the plaintiff were somewhat extended in the effort to obtain aid for Africa, from 1849 up to the time of the alleged libel. Yesterday the Rev. J. B. Pinney, Secretary of the New-York State Colonization Society, was on the stand for several hours, and will be examined again this morning. The plaintiff claims $10,000 damages.

The Americans in the Eleventh Ward have nominated for Alderman, Wm. W. Walsh; for Supervisor, William Vail; for Assessor, Nicholas B. [illegible]. The Republicans in the same Ward have nominated for Alderman, John R. Bulmer; for Supervisor, Thomas C. Burley; for Assessor, [illegible]. Some of the "Independent" voters in the Sixth Ward who could not get at the polls when the primary meeting was held, have placed E. B. Litchfield in nomination for Alderman.

The Coroners had another race yesterday. A man on Franklin-avenue, near DeKalb, died of consumption. Notice of the case was communicated to both Coroners at about the same time. Coroner [illegible] beat Snell in the race just half a block, and gained the case and fee. The breath had been out of the body just five minutes when the second Coroner reached the house of mourning.

Judge Lott, in this Court, has adopted a new rule, which will seriously inconvenience some lawyers. It is that when he adjourns a case to a particular hour he shall be understood to mean the precise moment named, and not, as usually understood, any time within the following hour.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning a frame house belonging to Alfred A. Morgan, on Van Buren-street, near Bedford-avenue, was destroyed by fire. Loss $600. Insured in the Atlantic Insurance Company.

Robert T. Byrne, arrested a few weeks ago on a charge of fraud and swindling, was yesterday admitted to bail in the sum of $4,000. An unsuccessful effort was made to reduce the bail.

The Republicans held their primary meetings last evening, and elected delegates to the City Convention, &c.

[illegible]

[illegible] George Steers (No. 5) arrived yesterday from a cruise, and reports having boarded the British bark Major Norton, of [illegible], Capt. Gowan, from Halifax for this port. Capt. Gowan reports that when 25 miles S. E. from Halifax he fell in with the schooner Dart, of Lunenburg, bound to St Peters, Miquelon, from Halifax on the 12th inst., loaded with lumber. She had been capsized on the evening of the 12th. They took from her the Captain and crew, in a frozen condition, and landed them at Peggy's Cove. The schooner was taken in tow, but they were obliged to cut her adrift. The names of those saved are Capt. Samuel Gowan, John Nase, [illegible] Bose and Huber Gorman, seamen; Geo. [illegible], steward.

[illegible] George Steers, (No. 6,) also reports on the 22d inst., when off Montauk Point, she passed a large number of barrels of flour, and boxes, supposed to contain tobacco. Probably from the deck load of some vessel, washed or thrown overboard in the late blow.

At the Navy Yard.

The frigate Wabash, which was taken into dock on Saturday for the examination of her copper, was taken out again yesterday. She is to be fitted out with all dispatch for the Mediterranean. Four of the engineers only have as yet been ordered to her.

The store-ship Relief sailed at 10 o'clock yesterday with stores for the home squadron. She goes to Aspinwall. The following is a list of her officers:

Lieut. Commanding James H. Strong, Lieut. Augustus McLaughlin, Lieut. J. Howard March, Lieut. W. W. Low, Lieut. James S. Thornton; Passed Assistant Surgeon, B. R. Mitchell; Captain's clerk John C. Robinson.

Some ninety caulkers were discharged on Saturday, who had been at work on the Wabash. There are now about 1,200 men, all to be at work in the yard.

The work upon the new ways in the ship-house is progressing rapidly.

The Flagg and Smith Case Before the Recorder—Affidavit of Charles Devlin.

In the Recorder's Office yesterday the case of James B. Smith, charged by Comptroller Flagg with inserting false entries in the books belonging to the Street Department, was again brought before his Honor. At the commencement of proceedings, Mr. Graham moved that Mr. Flagg himself, the complainant, should be sworn and cross-examined on his own affidavit. Judge Whiting strenuously objected. The Recorder said that he had no discretion in the matter. He had no power to order Mr. Flagg to be sworn. It must rest entirely with the counsel, and as Judge Whiting objected, the motion must be overruled.

Ex-Judge Whiting then called Mr. Charles Devlin to be sworn, whereupon Mr. Graham objected forcibly, and introduced the following important affidavit from Mr. Devlin:

In the matter of the complaint of Azariah C. Flagg vs. James B. Smith and John Fitzpatrick for an alleged conspiracy, &c.

City and County of New-York, ss.—Charles Devlin, of said City, being duly sworn, deposeth and saith: That he has reason to believe, and does believe, that the above complaint has been made for the purpose, under the pretence of examining witnesses to sustain it, of endeavoring to find out facts, which (it is thought) may be, and are, intended to be used to implicate the deponent in some criminal charge, or subject him to some criminal responsibility; that this deponent has been present at the examination of witnesses thus far, in support of said complaint, and that there has been a studious effort on the part of the counsel for the prosecution, by the course of his inquiries, to connect the deponent in some way with the issuing or receipt of the securities which it is pretended were improperly issued in the name of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York, through and as the result of the alleged conspiracy (between the said Jas. B. Smith and John Fitzpatrick;) that deponent has put himself under the professional direction of Messrs. Stillwell & Swain and John Graham, Esq., who have attended the said examination thus far, and who have advised this deponent that, though not a nominal, he is evidently an actual and real party to the said complaint, and that it would be improper, and that it might furnish links in a chain of evidence to be used against him, for him to testify as a witness upon said examination; that this deponent is entirely innocent of any criminality whatever, but that he is advised by his said counsel, that with such facts (perfectly innocent in themselves) as he might testify to, and which the prosecution might not be able to establish by any other witness, coupled with such facts as might proceed from the mistaken, or corruptly false testimony of other witnesses, a crime of some kind might be made out against him; that this deponent has been advised further by his said counsel, that being, as he manifestly is, an object of suspicion on the part of the prosecution, if not of direct charge, he is not bound to present himself as a witness on the investigation proceeding upon the said complaint, and that it would be a violation of his constitutional and legal rights, to ask or compel him in any way to aid or assist a proceeding which is covertly an accusation against himself.

CHARLES DEVLIN.

Andrew J. Smith, Commissioner of Deeds.

The affidavit gave rise to a protracted discussion between counsel, as to whether Mr. Devlin should or should not be sworn. The Recorder, while observing that, in his present opinion, Mr. Devlin ought to be examined, reserved his decision on the point to Thursday next.

The Miraculous Cures in Brooklyn.

Monday, March 15, 1858.

To the Editor of the Brooklyn Eagle:

A friend of mine has informed me that you copied the article of the New-York Times, in which some of my cures of diseases are mentioned, on the day of its appearance in that paper. But as I am not a reader of the Eagle myself, I ignored, till to-day, the existence of your leading article in the same number of your paper, headed: "The Nineteenth Century—Progress of Enlightenment."

One of your arguments being a master specimen of the [illegible] logic of the rest, I will present it before the eye of the public and let them judge for themselves.

You say literally: "Of the cures performed by this individual we have no means of judging." Can it be necessary to tell any human being, in this age of science and enlightenment, to what class of people a man belongs WHO PRETENDS TO JUDGE OF THAT OF WHICH HE ACKNOWLEDGES HE HAS NO MEANS OF JUDGING? Anybody outside of a Lunatic Asylum will answer this question for himself.

You say, further, "that the blind gentleman, Mr. Younge, (residing at No. 266 Fulton-avenue, Brooklyn,) who sells the Herald, Tribune and Times at the New-York side of the Fulton Ferry, imagines that when an opaque body is suddenly passed before his eyes he perceives a shadow. A slight stimulus of the imagination was the only cure performed on him." In one thing you show yourself perfectly correct, viz.: "that you have had no means of judging my cures." If you had spoken to the blind gentleman himself, you might have learned that he not only sees the daylight, but also that I have cured him of a chronic disease in his left side, of which he had been suffering for nine years, and that his general health has also remarkably improved under my treatment. I leave it for the public to judge what a gigantic stimulus to the imagination it would require to convince a man that he was cured of a chronic disease of nine years' standing if he were not really cured. You say further: "Can any educator of the people, religious or secular, fail to denounce this style of imposition and not neglect his duty?" First of all, you ought to prove that there is imposition before you have a right to defame my character—instead of doing this you simply say that: "Of the cures performed by me you have no means of judging." Why, then, for God's sake, have you the ridiculous presumption of judging what you acknowledge you do not understand? Every well-educated man understands the fundamental laws of animal magnetism; is it my fault if an individual of such a high character as the editor of the Brooklyn Eagle is a century or two behind the age?

As to the clergymen on whom you call to denounce me, I must tell you that a great many of these gentlemen are my friends and have been my scholars for some time. They know perfectly well that all my dealings are honest and above imposition. Facts are stubborn things. No eagle, high as he may soar, can prevent them from coming before the people; they will and must find their way.

There has scarcely been a day these last two weeks during which I have not performed some important and most remarkable cures, besides giving relief to a great many diseased friends. I can substantiate this by unexceptionable proofs. The peculiar power which I possess is a great step in advance to what is commonly called "Mesmerism" or "Magnetism," and I do not doubt that it will inaugurate a new era in the science of healing.

I am sorry that my numerous duties do not allow me to enter into further details this moment. I shall, however, do so as soon as possible.

Messrs. S. C. Herring & Co.—Gentlemen: On the night of the 11th inst., my store, No. 38 Maiden-lane, with my stock of merchandise, was entirely destroyed by fire. AN HUMBLE TRIBUTE

To the Memory of C. R. Meade, Esq.

BY J. McC.

His was a kindly heart,
His was a spirit bright,
His was a love that would impart
An ever pure delight.

But now from earth he's gone,
From friends and kindred dear,
Unto the silent tomb he's borne—
Ah! drop the tender tear.

Ah! balmy is the sigh,
For he a Christian died;
Oh, strive to meet him there on high,
With Christ and God allied.

Adieu, Oh, faithful friend!
Adieu! adieu!—a firm control,
Dear Saviour, ever lend.

LONGWORTH'S CATAWBA WINES,

SPARKLING AND STILL VINTAGES 1854 AND 1855.

These vintages, now for the first time introduced to the market, are still better than any of the former growths, more delicate in flavor, peculiarly grateful in aroma, and more likely to win upon the taste at first trial than any of preceding years, fully representing Mr. Longfellow's encomiums—

"For richest and best
Is the wine of the West,
That grows by the beautiful river,
Whose sweet perfume
Fills all the room
With a benison on the giver."

Hereafter the sales of these wines will be limited to a single agency as per following card:

Cincinnati, Feb. 26, 1858.

I have appointed Mr. Frederic S. Cozzens, of No. 73 Warren-st., New-York, my sole and exclusive agent to sell my wines in that City. What I furnish him for sale will always be pure, unmixed, and of native production.

(Signed) N. LONGWORTH.

The net cash prices for these wines will be as follows:

Sparkling Catawba, 1854 and 1855, in cases of one dozen quarts $12 00

Sparkling Catawba, 1854 and 1855, in cases of two dozen pints 14 00

Sparkling Isabella, in cases of one dozen quarts 12 00

Still Catawba, of superior quality, in cases of one dozen quarts 9 00

A discount of 50c. per case to the trade on quantities of five cases and upwards. FREDERIC S. COZZENS, Wine Merchant, No. 73 Warren-st., New-York.

COPPER, ANTIMONY, BLOCK TIN, &c.—A constant supply of Pig Copper, Regulus of Antimony, Banca and Straits Tin, Lead, Spelter, Tinmans' and Roofing Solder, Bismuth and other useful metals, for sale at the lowest rates, at Nos. 4 and 6 Burling-slip, by LUCIUS HART.

THE USE OF FARINA IN THE MOST [illegible] FORMS.

The working of Farina to such a end with the peculiar process by which WING'S FARINA CRACKERS are made, is known only to Mr. WING'S establishment.

The superior quality of his CRACKERS has already caused them to become widely known, and they are now in extensive use.

Their remarkable excellence and great popularity have attracted the attention of those manufacturing other descriptions of Crackers, and many of these persons buy WING'S CRACKERS in order to supply their customers with Farina Crackers also.

One or two individuals, however, have been offering the ordinary kind which they made under the name of Farina Crackers, and have succeeded in selling them to a small extent.

The selling of such Crackers for Farina has a tendency to injure the reputation of TRUE FARINA CRACKERS MADE BY MR. WING.

Errors of this character, however, are usually corrected by being properly exposed.

FARINA CRACKERS ARE MADE ONLY BY MR. WING.

They are not made by others, because the process is unknown to them, nor have they suitable works—these require a scientific arrangement, and great care is necessary in passing the grain through the different processes.

The practice required in order to prepare and work the material successfully is a serious impediment to others.

The impossibility of arranging the sponge without experience in this particular branch or kind of material and the critical knowledge indispensable in producing such an extremely light and nourishing substance as WING'S FARINA CRACKERS, cannot be accomplished without consummate skill and the means necessary to carry it out.

The whole business requires great care and good judgment, and must be carried on extensively in order to make it successful or profitable.

The objects to be attained by Mr. WING were to produce a superior article at a price suitable for all classes. For this he has labored long, and subjected himself to an adequate outlay of capital.

The pretence, therefore, on the part of any one else, that they make FARINA CRACKERS, is simply a device resorted to in the hope of selling more of an article than they otherwise would do, if offered under the proper name.

With the view of a largely-extended business, Mr. WING has continued for some time past the present low price for his Crackers.

It has been freely asserted by prominent Cracker-bakers in the City of New-York, that with the great amount of hand labor bestowed on WING'S FARINA CRACKERS, it is impossible for him to realize a profit at the present price.

Mr. WING'S object, however, is to place his CRACKERS in the market at a rate that will enable all persons to use them freely, and not advance the price, unless absolutely necessary.

The increased use of WING'S FARINA CRACKERS, with the commendatory remarks of parents, teachers and physicians, as well as many persons in various positions in life, whose powers have been more or less weakened by sedentary habits or occupations, is strong proof of the healthful and beneficial results which have attended their use.

Their great nourishing properties, and the ease with which the stomach digests this pleasant food, are well established, and there can be, on testing them, no doubt of this fact, viz.: that the same weight of WING'S CRACKERS will make more good blood, and act more kindly upon the delicate texture of the stomach, than anything else ever introduced in this or any other form of bread.

All true FARINA CRACKERS have the name WING stamped on them, and those wishing to buy should ask for WING'S CRACKERS.

They may be had at retail of the best family grocers generally, and at wholesale only at A. N. THOMPSON & CO., Nos. 221 and 223 Fulton-st., New-York.

CARD.

PETERSON'S REPLY TO PUTNAM.

G. P. Putnam—Dear Sir: I am astonished to see that the Card which you publish in the New-York Tribune and New-York Evening Post of yesterday, and in the New-York Times of this day, differs materially from the one which you showed to me on Saturday, in the presence of Messrs. Wm. Henry Brown and E. D. Long, and the publication of which I agreed to authorize.

The card, in fact, has been altered, interpolated, and important parts of it omitted. Most essential is the omission in your card of the letter which Mr. Irving did write, and which I stipulated from the first should go in with it in the same communication. This omission, coupled with the general tenor of the alterations, may lead the public to infer that Mr. Irving never wrote any letter of praise to Mr. Maitland at all.

The use of my name in the card, as it appears in print, is therefore, wholly unauthorized. I supposed, after your promise that the card, as shown to me, should be published entire and without alteration, that you would keep your word, or I would have remained in New-York to superintend its publication myself.

Respectfully yours,

T. B. PETERSON.

THE NEW-YORK CONDENSED MILK COMPANY,

A Corporation under the laws of this State, having purchased the patent right for this City and vicinity, will, on April 1, be prepared to deliver, to the residents of New-York and Brooklyn, at their dwellings,

BORDEN'S

CONDENSED MILK.

It is simply pure milk, from which the water has been evaporated in vacuo, when perfectly new and fresh.

There is no use to which ordinary milk is applied for which this is not equally valuable, and for many purposes it is much superior; used in coffee about one teaspoonful undiluted to the cup, equals best cream.

During the last season it was subjected to the most careful scientific tests, by a Committee of the Academy of Medicine who visited the works at Burrville, Conn., and witnessed the whole process. Their report (copies of which may be had at the Company's Dépôt) is in strong commendation.

Recommended, in many instances, by physicians of high standing for young and feeble children, its uniformly beneficial effect upon them, is, perhaps, the best test of its purity and value.

Owing chiefly to its density, it is affected much less than common milk by the action of the atmosphere. It has repeatedly been used on the voyage to Europe and back, and on its return to this port found perfectly sweet. When mingled with sugar, (like all other preparations for preserving milk,) or when hermetically sealed, it will remain good for many months.

Mr. Borden, the patentee, is a large stockholder, and the establishment at Burrville, Conn., remains under his superintendence.

It was in regular use the last season by about two hundred families, whose names and residences may be seen at the Dépôt.

The price has been reduced to 25 cents per quart.

1½ quarts water to 1 quart condensed milk makes 2½ quarts equal to cream.

4 quarts to 1 makes 5 quarts rich milk.

5 quarts to 1 makes 6 quarts good milk.

6 quarts to 1 makes 7 quarts, as good as the ordinary milk.

When diluted 5 or 6 to 1, a very little salt corrects the freshness of the Croton and improves the taste.

Three times a week being as often as consumers need receive it, no deliveries will be made on Sunday.

It is now on sale at the Dépôt, No. 173 Canal-st., second block west of the Bowery.

THE FIRST OF MAY!

The first of May approaches,
When bugs, fleas and roaches
Their noxious columns muster;
The rat, too, then encroaches,
The mouse sly plunderer, poaches,
Putting ladies in a fluster;
But thy magic powder, Lyon,
Is the food that insects die on,
Mice and rats, too,
By thy pills, which we rely on,
Are killed to the last scion,
Without cats, too.

TOWN TOPICS.—LICHSTENSTEIN'S HOME OF FASHION.—Mr. M. B. LICHSTENSTEIN, who has been for the past two months in Europe, seeking for the latest nouveautés and modes in the way of dress trimmings for the ladies, and millinery goods, has just returned home. The superb assortment of everything calculated to please a dainty eye and a critical taste which is now displayed in his fashionable store No. 387 Broadway, is the result of his researches. The magazines of Paris, London, Berlin and Vienna were all subjected to his careful inspections. The styles, the novelties, the [illegible] in the way of ribbons, trimmings, fringes and buttons, silk velvets, satins, blonde laces, artificial flowers, illusions, crapes, poults de soies, dress trimming ribbons and millinery goods were all submitted to his choice, and with cash in hand, he was not only enabled to make a selection wholly unparalleled before in this country for beauty, extravagant finish, decided elegance and positive fashion, but never yet approached in point of cheapness for articles of such exquisite quality in every genre. For everything that a delicate taste or a gorgeous fancy can demand, for bonnets and their varied accessories, for the manifold accompaniments necessary to the perfection of a lady's dress, LICHSTENSTEIN, No. 387 Broadway, may be said to surpass all rivalry in America. MUNICIPAL.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The Board of Aldermen met last evening, President CLANCY in the Chair. A communication was received from the Mayor, stating the fact that the records in the Register's office had been injured by water from the Street Commissioner's office, which had been left running during the night before. He recommended that the water should be cut off, as similar accidents had occurred before.

The Committee on Lands and Places reported in favor of granting to the Nursery and Child's Hospital the use of four lots for a play-ground during the pleasure of the Common Council.

Alderman TUCKER thought two lots would be enough, as it was equivalent to a permanent grant. The report was laid on the table.

The following report in relation to the erection of a building in the Park, recommended by the Mayor, was read:

ADVERSE TO THE MAYOR'S NEW BUILDING IN THE PARK.

The Committee on Repairs and Supplies, to whom was referred the Message of his Honor the Mayor, and accompanying Resolutions, to authorize him to enter into a negotiation with the Postmaster-General of the United States, for the erection of a building at the sole expense of the Federal Government, on the unoccupied ground in the Park, on Chambers-street, in the rear of the present City Hall, one half of which it is proposed by the Mayor shall belong to the United States, and the other half to the City, in consideration of the Common Council ceding to the United States the amount of land required for a Post-Office and Court-Rooms, and for which the Federal Government is to erect on the land adjoining a building sufficiently commodious to accommodate the City Offices and Courts, respectfully

REPORT:

That although your Committee have not communicated directly with the Postmaster General or any department of the Federal Government, yet they have no reason to believe that the project suggested in the Message is seriously entertained, or that any authoritative proposition has been made in a responsible manner on the subject. Your Committee cannot ascertain that any information has been received by the Mayor, which, in his judgment, ought to be disclosed, or excepting such as he considers private or of a confidential character.

The dedication of any portion of the Park to the purpose of erecting buildings, either for the City or General Government, is a matter of very great public importance; not only because, when the limited quantity of the unoccupied land of the City in this vicinity becomes exhausted and appropriated, we shall be driven to remote localities for similar objects in future, but also because, when those public buildings shall be once erected, they are expected to answer the proposed ends for many years to come, and should therefore be placed where they will be of the greatest service.

The duty of determining these and all kindred questions requiring municipal legislation belongs to the Common Council, and your Committee are of opinion that unless a responsible offer or suggestion be made by the authorities at Washington, in a form susceptible of being laid before the Common Council for their action, the action of the Board cannot be advantageously invoked or intelligently exercised.

No authority is necessary for mere purposes of negotiation, nor could any authority empower the Mayor to enter into a valid contract or obligation, or dispense with the ultimate legislation of both Boards of the Common Council.

The passage of a resolution, authorizing the Mayor or any other person to negotiate, could not make the City responsible for any arrangement which might be concluded, or give any assurance to the Federal Government that it would be ratified by the legal authorities here.

The Mayor, being the Chief Magistrate of the City, does not require a resolution of the Common Council to introduce him to the authorities at Washington, or to satisfy them that he is engaged in matters requiring his executive attention.

But your Committee cannot see the propriety of passing the resolution, after being relieved from the misapprehension that the Postmaster-General had communicated officially and responsibly to the Mayor on the subject, as was supposed when the message was first received, and the resolution originally introduced.

The cession of the upper portion of the Park, or any part of it, to the United States Government, for a Post-Office or other national purpose, is of doubtful expediency, and a question upon which public sentiment is very much divided, requiring time and deliberation for its judicious settlement.

Your Committee, while that important subject remains in the hands of a special Committee of this Board, do not feel justified in interfering with the appropriate duties of that Committee, nor committing the Board to any apparent opinion concerning it as might be implied by the adoption of the resolution under consideration.

The subject of erecting a building for City offices and Court-purposes on the land in question is also under consideration by another Committee of this Board, who are preparing plans and specifications and perfecting arrangements to supply the wants of the City in that respect, and to dispense as soon as possible with the very great inconvenience and heavy expenses attending the hiring and leasing of public offices in the vicinity of the Park. Parliamentary usage and courtesy, as well as the due and orderly transaction of Legislative business, require that this subject should not be interfered with directly or indirectly by the Board, until those Committees shall have reported or until they are expressly relieved or discharged from its further consideration.

Your Committee think it proper to remind the Board that an act of the Legislature, passed April 17, 1857, makes it the duty of certain Commissioners to erect a City Hall on the proposed site, and as that act, although its validity is extensively doubted by the most respectable authority, has never been expressly held unconstitutional by the Courts, your Committee are under the impression that some of the members of the Board may not feel at liberty to disregard its requirements or to appropriate any portion of the land in question to a purpose different from that directed by the said act.

Your Committee, in conclusion, for the reasons hereinbefore briefly referred to, respectfully recommend that this Board do non-concur in the resolution authorizing the Mayor to negotiate with the Postmaster-General of the United States for the erection of a building upon the upper portion of the Park. All of which is respectfully submitted.

MICHAEL TUOMEY,
THOS. STEPHENS, } Com. on Repairs and Supplies.
JOHN LYNES,

After some debate the report was accepted.

The following resolution was offered by Alderman [illegible], and adopted:

Resolved, That the City Inspector be requested to communicate to this Board at its next session why persons employed in cleaning the streets in Wards not contracted for, have received no pay since the 15th day of October last.

After several references, the Board adjourned to Friday next.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The Board of Supervisors met yesterday afternoon in the Councilmen's Chamber, President PURDY in the Chair. A communication was received from the Mayor, in relation to High Bridge; stating that the Legislature having made it a free bridge, it was their duty to keep it in repair, and to raise money for that purpose.

The Committee reported favorably upon the application of the Recorder for two additional Clerks, at salaries not to exceed $1,000 a year, each; the Clerks to continue in office during the pleasure of the Mayor. The rules were suspended, and the report was received and the resolution adopted.

The following was presented, read and referred:

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors of the County of New-York:

The Commissioners of Records respectfully represent that through accident or extreme carelessness, the Croton Water in the Street Commissioners' Office was permitted to run during last evening, and the entire night, and descending into the Office of the Register, which is situated underneath, injured thirty or forty volumes of the Records, which will put the County to the expense of rebinding them, and perhaps copying.

To prevent future accidents, (as this has been the fourth of the kind during the last five or six years,) we would suggest to your honorable body to cause the Croton pipes to be removed from the office of the Street Commissioner and also from the Comptroller's office, and not be permitted to be replaced.

That the damage done by the present accident may be quite as injurious as if the building had been exposed to fire, inasmuch as damage by water is as destructive as by fire to records.

The Commissioners of Records deem it their duty to bring this matter before your Honorable body, as it requires immediate attention.

W. C. WETMORE,
Chairman of Com. of Records.

NEW-YORK, March 23, 1858.

The quarterly report of the keeper of Eldridge-street Jail was presented, but as the bill for coal and some other articles was considered large, it was ordered to be printed before any action should be taken, in order that members might have an opportunity to examine it.

The Board then adjourned to Tuesday next, at 3 P. M.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

The Board of Governors of the Almshouse met Tuesday, the President, WASHINGTON SMITH, Esq., in the chair.

The report and resolution of the Committee on the erection of the Island Hospital were called up. Governor DUGRO moved for a recess of thirty minutes, but his motion was lost. The report and resolution were read. They recommend that the mason's work be done by the day, and that all available labor from the Institutions be put in requisition.

Governor B. F. PINCKNEY thought it was a reflection upon the skill of our mechanics to say they could not make a proper estimate for a contract.

Governor TOWNSEND—Buncombe!

Governor PINCKNEY said, if there were a disposition to make prison labor available, there were many who would hire it out for 25 cents per day. He had no idea that the subject was coming up that night, and wished it deferred. He would prefer that the work should be contracted for.

Governor TOWNSEND argued against delay. It would soon be too late to think of finishing the building before the Winter if there were further unnecessary delay. No men had labored more honestly than the day laborers who had been employed at Bellevue. He would press for a vote this evening.

Governor DUGRO still asked for delay. If others were posted, he declared he was not. He moved a postponement for one week.

Governor OLIVER was sure no member's opinion would be changed or modified by delay. Besides, next meeting would be requisition-day. If the Committee wanted to make money out of it, they would have had a better chance of plunder by recommending the contract plan. Why was delay wanted? What sort of a building was the old Hospital that had been built by contract? When the fire occurred the walls fell, and so badly had it been built by contract, that $10,000 was demanded and paid for propping it up soon after it had been built.

The motion to postpone was lost. The question next came up as to the adoption of the resolution, when Governor DUGRO again moved the postponement, which was again negatived.

Governor DUGRO spoke very loudly against the resolution, and applied very emphatic epithets more than once to one member of the Board. He asserted that "the whole thing had been caucused in rascality."

Governor OLIVER said if a man came there under the infatuation of bad rum, he hoped the President would protect him. He had been styled "vagabond, villain, a man of no character, not to be believed under oath."

The President said he had not heard such words.

Governor OLIVER said if he were courteously deaf, those around him had heard such language, and so had the spectators of their proceedings.

After further discussion, a vote was taken, and the President declared the resolution carried.

Governor ANDERSON immediately moved that no liquors, wines or cigars, or carriages, be in future supplied, to any of the institutions under the control of the Board.

Governor MOLONEY asked who had complained?

Governor ANDERSON explained that the motion originated with himself, and he handed a paper to the members showing the expense thus far incurred; he would charge nobody specially. "We," said he, "have indulged in this way, and it is my opinion it ought to be cut off."

Governor OLIVER believed it would be good for both Governors and tax-payers if the resolution were adopted.

Governor MOLONEY would abolish the expense for carriages.

Governor DUGRO—Ah! there's OLIVER, he carries his bottle in his pocket I suppose.

Governor OLIVER said it was not so, but even that would be better than carrying it in his head. [A laugh.]

Governor TOWNSEND would vote for the whole resolution: an amendment to strike out the word "carriages" was lost, and on the original resolution eight members voted in the affirmative, and one (Governor GUNTHER) in the negative.

Governor GUNTHER said he believed his was the only honest and sincere vote cast.

Governor ANDERSON said a request had been made that he would give to the press the document that had been handed around. It was the property of the Board. He had no objection, personally, but he really believed it would be better for the Board that such a statement as to the amount of expense incurred should not be published.

Governor PINCKNEY said the accounts of the Department were open to the public.

Governor DUGRO—Oh! let the gin-heads know all about it!

A discussion then came up about a contract for milk, when it was determined to leave the matter to the Committee on Supplies, with power.

Governor MOLONEY moved that no refreshments of any kind be furnished to the Governors when visiting the Island.

Governor GUNTHER would vote as he did before. Yet if he were to take his crackers and cheese with him, as he did when he went fishing, he was not opposed to the motion.

Governor OLIVER said if this were really meant for good, he would not oppose it. His opposition to rum was sincere, but he insisted on it that a simple dinner or lunch was not objectionable.

Governor DUGRO said the resolution was offered in good faith, and was intended to prevent Governors from treating their friends to expensive entertainments when they took them to visit the Islands. Others had indulged in it, so had he, but he hoped the whole thing would be broken down.

Governor ANDERSON said that as to drink, the thing had been abused, and it was necessary to stop it. He would move as an amendment that no refreshments be offered at the Islands except as ordered by the Board. He liked a little brandy and water at his meals, but would avoid the use of it when he saw it had been abused.

Governor MOLONEY disclaimed hypocrisy. What right had the Board to debar him. "Do away," said he, "with a clean hand, the eating as well as the drinking; that would be honest and consistent."

Governor OLIVER asked if it were consistent to gormandize at the public expense, and yet, when a visitor was taken there, to offer him no refreshments? He hoped the Board had too much good sense to pass a resolution that would deny the reasonable indulgence in a little food when needed. Some Governors went to the Islands only on the Sabbath. Now, if during the week he chose to take a friend with him, surely he and his friend might be allowed a little food.

Governor DUGRO spoke with contempt of "cold water suckers," as he termed them.

The vote was taken. There were 5 in the affirmative and 4 in the negative, and thus the matter was laid on the table.

The "Homœopathy" question was postponed for four weeks, upon which the Board, having sat three hours and a half, adjourned.

It was understood, at the close, that the expense for what had been characterized as "bad rum," for Governors' guests and visitors, had been $2,147 for the last six months, which Governor OLIVER said was not such a very great sum, after all.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

COURT CALENDAR—WEDNESDAY, March 24.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term.—Nos 149, 66, 84, 95, 120, 22, 79, 128, 67, 103, 153, 154, 155, 155½, 156, 158, 115, 131, 186, 28.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—March 23.

Before Judge Hall.

A nolle prosequi was entered this morning in the case of William Woods, mate of the bark Escorriaza, indicted for an assault with intent to commit a rape upon the person of Maria Josephs, stewardess of the bark.

Reuben S. Bassford was put on trial this morning, charged with aiding in making counterfeit money. Messrs. Beebe and Donohue appeared as his counsel. The witness for the prosecution proved that defendant was a journeyman barber at No. 14 Beekman-street, and was there when the place was searched by Police officers, who found in a closet and under a washstand counterfeit coins; also, moulds and metal, and that one counterfeit ten cent piece was found upon the person of the accused.

The case was not closed.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Hon. Justice Clerke.

THE JORDAN DIVORCE—ATTACHMENT VACATED.

Anne Jordan vs. George C. Jordan.—It will be remembered that in a suit between these parties, well known in theatrical circles, a divorce was granted, the defendant to pay certain alimony. He neglected to do so, and on affidavit that he was intending to leave the State, an attachment was granted. Mr. Jordan gave $50 alimony now due and costs, and gave security for future payments, and the attachment was vacated by consent.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before the Hon. Justice Pierrepont.

THE JOSEPH WALKER CASE.

Dodge & Barnes vs. Fernando Wood et al.—This case was continued yesterday, and several parties were examined; nothing new was elicited.

SPECIAL TERM.

Before the Hon. Justice Hoffman.

The Wallington Manufacturing Company vs. William Hulbert.—Order of reference to hear and determine all the issues.

William L. McAfee vs. Taliafero P. Shaffner.—Motion for a new trial denied, with $10 costs.

Court of Appeals.

This Court commences its March Term for the hearing of cases this morning. The Judges have been in the city several days engaged in consultation upon cases heretofore argued.

We perceive that a bill has been introduced in the Senate, the object of which is to prolong the Winter session of this Court. We think it requires a continuous session of eight weeks, if there are causes remaining ready for argument, and provides for paying the expenses of the Judges during the session, although we are not informed as to the details of the bill. We have no doubt that longer sessions and the examination and decision of causes immediately upon the argument, would enable the Court to dispatch a much larger amount of business, and, we hope, in a short time to clear its calendar. But it is hardly probable that such a course will be adopted under the present salary of only $2,500 per annum, which does not enable the Judges to afford prolonged and expensive absence from their homes. With an increase of salary or any legitimate and constitutional provision for the expenses of longer terms, they should undoubtedly be required by law.

A law was passed last Winter which increased the salaries of the Judges of the Court of Appeals and Justices of the Supreme Court to $3,500 per annum, but owing to the constitutional inhibition, it could only be made applicable to those thereafter elected. We see that the Judiciary Committee of the Senate has reported an amendment of the Constitution to allow the increase also to apply to the Judges now in office. This would be obviously just.—Albany Atlas and Argus, March 23.

CAUTION TO HOTEL-KEEPERS.

I understand that several persons are traveling about the City and country, representing themselves as agents for WOLFE'S Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps, and selling the same by the gallon and pipe.

I beg leave to caution hotel-keepers and the public against these impostors.

The genuine Schnapps is only sold in quart and pint bottles, with the proprietor's name on the bottle and cork, and a fac simile of his signature on the label.

I would advise all persons who have been swindled by these impostors to refuse payment, on the ground of fraud, as the debt cannot be collected by law.

Sole Manufacturer and Importer, No. 22 Beaver-street.

TUESDAY, March 23—P. M.

The Exchange market recovered full ⅛ ℘ cent. on the closing dealings for the Boston steamer, and most of the sales of choice bank and banker's bills to-day were at 107¼ ℘ cent. The lower quotations submitted to yesterday brought forward a considerable trade demand from the importers, inducing the advance just noticed on the part of the leading drawers. A corresponding advantage was made on some parcels of commercial bills, to-day, notwithstanding the reduced figures telegraphed from New-Orleans. The market this afternoon left off 107¼@107½ on London bankers, and 106½@107¼ commercial signatures. France 5.20@5.17½. The market for money is quiet. The Bank Statement this morning is regarded a strong one. The reaction in Exchange will, of course, discourage any important importations of Gold from England, and the absence of such a movement, under existing circumstances, is rather to be desired than otherwise.

The Stock Exchange has been the principal point of interest in the Street news to-day. The demonstration against New-York Central and one or two other strong stocks on the share list, yesterday, gave the operators for the decline almost complete control this forenoon, and the further break-down in prices was at one time equal to an average of 2½ ℘ cent., making 4@4½ ℘ cent. decline on New-York Central, Erie, Reading, Hudson River, &c., in two days, and about 3 ℘ cent. on Missouri State Sixes. The dealings at the extreme depression were not large, as compared with the rushing sales on the upward movement some weeks ago, but some very considerable lines were done at about ½@1 ℘ cent. above the lowest point. As the business of the day progressed, the market grew a little stronger, though still unsteady, until near the close, when the disposition to purchase became more general, and final prices showed some firmness. The day having been altogether a remarkable one in the dealings of the month, we annex the following as the course of the market, including the top rates about March 1, by way of illustrating the extreme differences made within a period of four weeks:

New-York Central	94¾	89	85¾	87¼
Erie	27	25	22¼	23¼
Reading	57	52½	50	51¼
Hudson	37	26¾	25	26
Rock Island	80	73	73¾	74
Galena	89	90¾	89	90
Michigan Southern	32½	20¾	20	21
Mich. Southern Preferred	58	43¼	42	42¾
Michigan Central	75	65¾	62¼	63½
Milwaukee	41	31	29½	30
Toledo	55½	43	42¼	43¼
Missouris	84¾	82	80¾	80¾

Camden and Amboy Railroad and Delaware and Raritan Canal [illegible] sold at 80¾, and the Scrip stock of the same Company issued for profits of last year, sold at 98. The last year's dividend was nearly 30 ℘ cent., and the stock ranged at 128; then, deducting the dividends leaves the stock at par.

In regard to the Cotton trade, the circular of Mr. W. P. WRIGHT, prepared for the Boston steamer reports, to-day, as follows:

Per Canada.] NEW-YORK, Tuesday, March 23, 1858.

Since my circular of the 16th inst., the Arabia has arrived with dates to 6th inst. During the early part of the week, in the Liverpool Cotton market, an advance of ⅛d. ℘ ℔. was gained, which was maintained until the close of Friday, the quotations being for Middling Orleans 7⅜d., Mobile 7¼, and Uplands 7 11-16d. ℘ ℔. The sales amounted to 36,000 bales. On Saturday, indications of a change in the wind made large arrivals of Cotton probable; holders became desirous of selling, and the advance was lost, business closing dull. From Manchester the accounts were still very favorable.

We have been more quiet in this market since the 16th inst., and since the Arabia arrived, prices have given way ⅛c. ℘ ℔. There is more disposition to sell, though holders are unwilling to force sales. The business since my last circular has been 4,000 bales, market closing tamely at the annexed quotations. The export for the same time has been—to Liverpool, 2,605 bales, and Christianstedt, (Finland,) 1,720. Total, 4,325 bales.

Cotton in transitu has partaken of the dullness. Though no decline of moment can be quoted, holders generally prefer sending the Cotton forward to selling here at a loss. The sales for the week have only been 3,000 bales, closing somewhat irregularly and making quotations difficult.

SOUTHERN MARKETS.—The particulars as received by mail are given elsewhere in full. By telegraph for a week later we learn that very little change had taken place in spite of advanced freights, declining exchange and the somewhat less favorable accounts from Liverpool by the Arabia. We have as yet scarcely time to know the full effect of the latter.

Receipts at the ports for the week under review sum up 122,000 bales, against 66,000 for the corresponding week last year. The deficit is thereby reduced to 286,000 bales as compared with same dates last year. Next week we shall show a further considerable decrease, since the receipts this year are likely to be 100,000 bales, against 58,000 for the corresponding week last season. On the 1st of March this year the total stock of cotton in the interior markets, not yet counted in the receipts at the ports, amounted to 140,000 bales, against last year at corresponding dates 83,000 bales, showing an excess of 57,000 bales.

Exports for the week to Great Britain, 57,000 bales; France, 4,000; other foreign ports, 23,000. The deficit to Great Britain as compared with last year now amounts to 42,000; to France, 43,000; to other foreign ports, 60,000 bales. The exports to Great Britain will continue on a large scale for some weeks, as there are 34 more vessels loading at New-Orleans and Mobile than at the same time last year for Great Britain while for France there are 10 less.

The following is a statement of the movement in Cotton since the 1st September, as compared with the previous four years:

Total Exports	84,000	89,000	78,000	88,000	96,000

The following is a comparative statement of the Exports (exclusive of specie) from New-York to foreign ports for the week and since Jan. 1:

We have advices from Buenos Ayres to the 28th of January. The following extract from a private letter of that date, will be found interesting:

"This city is now in great commercial distress. Many houses are failing, and Hides are without price as there are no buyers. When I landed here last November, Hides were selling freely at 34c; now they can be purchased in the city at from 16c.@17c. I was offered in the interior first-class dry Hides at 11c. The stock of dry Hides in this city is 150,000 or 200,000."

Mr. DAVID MOSES, the oldest merchandise broker in this City, died at his residence on Sunday morning. He was over 80 years of age. A meeting of the leading merchandise brokers, held to-day, resolved, as a mark of respect for his memory, to close their offices, and attend his funeral to-morrow from his late residence, No. 91 Clinton-place. A copy of the proceedings was to be presented to his family.

Mr. JOHN B. MURRAY announces his removal to the offices lately occupied by the United States Trust Company, No. 40 Wall-street, in the Manhattan Bank Building.

The foregoing exhibit of the business interests of Chicago, for the year 1857, we have obtained from the Chicago Press.

The Boston Post of this morning, in its weekly review of finance and business, says:

"The stock market alone furnishes any items of present interest, and even this, for a fortnight past, has been unusually quiet, in sympathy with that of New-York. As to money and trade, they continue in the condition heretofore reported, the former being exceedingly and increasingly abundant, and the latter very stagnant, comparatively speaking, but giving evidence of some improvement. In several branches even there is considerable activity, but, upon the whole, business ranges far behind that of last year, while in some lines it is next to nothing. The specie in the banks is still on the increase, and although the last issue of Treasury notes has told somewhat upon the coin of the New-York City banks, yet the pressing disbursements of Government will soon add to it again, and from the condition of foreign exchange there is sufficient reason to believe that the specie holdings of the cities have not nearly reached their maximum. Imports of merchandise are scanty; cotton is bringing a good price, and is hurried forward from the Southern ports; the abundance and cheapness of money contribute to render salable the inferior classes of Sterling bills; and the Foreign Exchange Market in general has declined below the ordinary specie point. There is no apprehension of any exports of specie for the present, and on the contrary, many believe that gold will soon be transmitted to us from Europe. As to the rates of money in State-street, they are various and irregular. At the Banks the range is from 6 to 8 ℘ cent.; but outside prime securities, or paper in any quantity, will obtain the cash readily at 5 ℘ cent., while specific negotiations are made at 5. In some cases, on call, we hear of loans obtained at 4. The old Treasury notes are scarce and in demand at ½ ℘ cent. discount. Those of the last issue have scarcely come upon this market as yet. Sound Stocks and Bonds are well sustained. Among the "fancies," the only prominent varieties are Cary Improvement and Pewabic. The annual report of the Directors of the former is now before us. The Company owed but $45,756 when the report was written, and of this $25,000 was paid on Saturday last, and the remainder is to be paid during the month of April. The total assets, besides the real estate, are $271,247. Of these, $46,709 are in cash, and the remainder in well-secured demand loans and mortgages, and $27,134 in houses and unsettled sales. After liquidating the whole debt, (the balance of the original mortgage on the property,) the balance of assets, available and equal to cash, is $225,491, or three and three-quarters dollars ℘ share. The land sales up to the present date have averaged 17 cents ℘ foot. The number of houses on the estate is 44, which have cost above $150,000. The present population is 200. The land unsold is fourteen millions of feet, or 325 acres, at 10 cents ℘ foot, worth $1,400,000, or above twenty-three dollars ℘ share. This is after the deduction of sales, streets and land dividend No. 1. The original estimate for sales was based upon an average of 12½ cents. The actual sales average 17 cents. The report says: 'We now obtain from 20 to 23 cents ℘ foot for lots, for which we should not have asked more than 15 three years since.' There are 4½ miles of streets on the property. The report states that the Horse Railroad through the estate will probably be in operation by July 1."
